Three High Class Banquets Held in New York City

On April 11th last, the Rally and Banquet of the Commercial Travellers' National League was held at the Broadway Central Hotel. On this occasion G. H. Mumm's Extra Dry was listed and used exclusively.

On April 23rd last, a Banquet was given by the Veteran Association of the Brooklyn City Guard, at the Arkright Club, at which G. H. Mumm & Co's Selected Brut was listed and used exclusively.

Last Saturday week, May 21st, the Complimentary Dinner to the National Commandery of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish American War, by the New York Commandery took place at Hotel Astor, when G. H. Mumm & Co's Selected Brut was the one champagne listed and used exclusively.

We have pleasure in quoting the above facts, which further show that no high class function in the United States is considered complete without G. H. Mumm's Champagne, now known all over the civilized world as the purest and best Champagne procurable.

NICARAGUANS STILL AT WAR

Troops of Madriz Government Make Further Attacks on Positions of Revolutionaries in Vicinity of Bluefields

INSURGENTS MORE THAN HOLD THEIR OWN

United States Marines and Bluejackets to Be Lande to Prevent Fighting Within the Limits of the City

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A cablegram dated Bluefields, and sent from there at six o'clock this morning, stated that the government troops, which for several weeks have been before Bluefields to the westward, again began the attacking operations today. The forces attacking the city were those of the government under General Lara, who in the last few days has repeatedly attacked the revolutionary forces of General Estrada, but has been repulsed each time. The government troops during these attacks sustained heavy losses.

The fighting has taken place quite near Bluefields, and the insurgents, besides holding their own with the attacking troops and repulsing them each time, captured two hundred men of the Madriz troops. These troops, when brought into Bluefields, informed General Estrada that the government troops under General Lara were starving.

The cruiser DuBuque, which has been rushed from Bluefields to the isthmus to secure reinforcements, has already taken on board 300 of the marines that have been encamped there and sailed from Cristobal for Bluefields. It is believed that with the landing of about 300 marines, and perhaps some bluejackets, in the city, protected by the guns of the two warships Pauchich and DuBuque, there will be no difficulty in carrying out Captain Gilmer's orders to both factions to refrain from fighting within the city limits.

New Governor of P.E.I.
OTTAWA, May 30.—Hon Benjamin Rogers, of Alberton, P.E.I., has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island, in place of Hon. D. A. Mackinnon, retired.

Senator Lorimer's Case
WASHINGTON, May 30.—The investigation by the Senate of the charges against Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, probably will be much more exhaustive than would be possible under the resolution which the Illinois senator introduced. There was considerable discussion today of the proposed investigation, and the opinion was expressed that this resolution would be broadened.

Field operations in spring sowing were the earliest in many years, and with the setback of the latter part of April, spring sowing is about a month earlier than last season and a week ahead of the average year.

Fall wheat entered into May well forward, and although some was drowned the outlook is vigorous. Clover suffered from last season's drought, but now presents a good appearance. The short and mild winter worked wonders in the fodder supply; some, however, sold too freely, tempted by the high prices, but the early grass came to their rescue.

The reports of live stock are particularly bright, except that the unusually high prices led to hasty marketing. Cattle have been remarkably free from disease. Milk cows are fatter than usual, but more calves are being kept. Sheep fare doing well, and lambs are strong and plentiful. Swine are not so plentiful. The general outlook regarding orchards is encouraging.

Strike Threatened
LONDON, Ont., May 30.—A strike of bricklayers may be precipitated here by the masters rejecting the men's claim for higher wages. A three years' agreement expired on May 1, and the men have asked an agreement from 45 cents to 47c per hour for the present year, and 50 cents for the two remaining years of the agreement.

Canadian Cattle in Britain
OTTAWA, May 30.—F. Bleckendike, Canadian commissioner at Belfast reports to the department here that the Imperial Government is feeling the pressure of those who desire the free importation of cattle, and the present outlook is that the embargo against Canadian animals cannot be consistently maintained. The result is that the dead meat trade is being advocated in Ireland as giving better prices and additional employment.

PROPOSE TO TRY BOARD SYSTEM

Vancouver Council Passes By-law Providing for Board of Control—Will Shortly Be Submitted to Ratepayers

VANCOUVER, May 30.—The city council this evening passed a by-law authorizing the creation of a board of control, which would act as the executive of the council in the government of the city.

The legislation arranges for the election of three controllers, who, with the mayor, shall constitute the board. The opinion of the council was that these men should give their entire time to the city and receive a salary of five thousand dollars a year each. The project must be ratified by the electorate at the polls by a three-fifths majority, and the present plans are to submit the matter for decision so as to allow of the election of the first board of control at the municipal elections next January.

The council also decided to call for competitive plans for a steel frame office building on the site of the present city hall to serve as city headquarters until the city is able to arrange for the erection of a hall costing from $500,000 to $750,000 adequate for civic purposes.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Baseball Grounds to Be Utilized at Times When No Games Are To Be Played.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 30.—National and American league baseball parks are to be turned into money makers when the national game is not played on them. At a meeting here today of men who are well known in amusement enterprise an organization was formed with a capitalization of $100,000,000 which is the culmination of a project that was started more than a year ago.

Garry Hermann, of Cincinnati, Max C. Anderson and Henry M. Seigle of New York, and Harry Davis and John P. Harris, of Pittsburgh, are the active heads of the enterprise.

Tonight hippodromes were opened simultaneously in the national league ball grounds at Cincinnati and in this city. Next Monday the grounds of the American Association at Indianapolis will be opened. The following week the St. Louis league grounds will be turned into a hippodrome.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE

Extensive Destruction of Timber and Other Property in Mistamin District.

MISTMIN, May 30.—Communication has been interrupted for two days by bush fires destroying the telegraph lines. A heavy rain on Saturday almost completely extinguished the fires, and danger of a further outbreak is practically over.

The entire four townships of timber limits operated by Mackenzie and Mann have been completely fire swept, and also the country for many miles north and south along both sides of the Canadian Northern Railway from near Tisdale, Sask., to Melfort, Man.

The Great West Lumber Company, of Greenbush, was also a heavy loser, having over seventy-five thousand logs burned on the banks of the river.

It is understood that the Cowan Construction Company will immediately rebuild the sawmill and the camps and prepare for extensive operations next winter to clear the limits, as the timber will not be of much use if left standing long after being killed by fire.

SOUTH AFRICA'S FIRST CABINET

Sauer and Malan were respectively commissioners of public works and secretary of agriculture in the Cape Colony cabinet. General Hertzog was attorney-general in the ministry of the Orange River Colony.

The union parliament, the members of which will be elected immediately, will consist of a Senate and a House of Assembly. Capetown will be the seat of the Legislature and Pretoria the seat of the executive governor.

Fire in Amherst

AMHERST, May 30.—Fire broke out at midnight in the works of the Malleable Iron Co., since the merger of the companies now comprising the Canada Car and Foundry Co., a department of that enterprise. Half an hour later the building was pretty badly gutted, but the firemen seemed to have the blaze under control. The building is of brick and 200 feet long by 60 feet wide. The works had been idle for two years previous to being taken over by the Canada Car and Foundry Co. In the six months since that time they have been fully occupied, employing one hundred men, making the malleable castings for the car works at Amherst and in Montreal. The cause of the fire is not known.

WAGES QUESTION ON B. C. ELECTRIC

Negotiations Between Company and Employees Now Proceeding—Old Agreement Expires on July 1st.

VANCOUVER, MAY 30.—The wage agreement between the British Columbia Electric Railway Company and its employees on tram lines at all points in the province will expire on July 1, after having been in operation for three years. Negotiations between the management of the concern and the employees' union have been carried on for some time looking toward a renewal of the agreement, with the insertion of a revised wage schedule.

The ideas of the company's officials and the employees as to the proposed advance of wages do not agree, and it is probable that the whole question will finally be settled by an appeal to the Dominion authorities for the appointment of a commission under the Lemieux act, which shall dispose of the subject by arbitration.

The Vancouver local of the tram employee's, the largest branch of the union, held a lengthy meeting early yesterday morning at which the question of a new agreement was fully discussed. It is stated that the men were strongly against accepting the wage schedule submitted by the company, and as much in favor of adhering to the advances requested by the union.

On the question of arbitration there was difference of opinion on the point as to whether the Dominion authorities should be asked to act in the matter or the question be settled by a local conference. This point will be settled by a vote of the employees, which is said to be in progress today.

Both the officials of the company and the leaders among the employees deprecate strongly any talk of a strike on the tram system, regarding this result as extremely unlikely.

CHURCH WORK IN CANADA

Addresses Made by Western Men Before General Assembly, Church of Scotland.

LONDON, May 30.—At the general assembly of the Church of Scotland the Rev. Dr. Norman, of Macleod, Alberta, claimed that no finer work was being done than by the Presbyterian church of Canada in the far west, and he appealed for further help from Scotland.

Lord Balfour, of Burielgh, who visited Canada last fall in connection with trade relations between the Dominion and the West Indies, agreed with Rev. Dr. Norman, and said the work of the Presbyterian church of Canada was worthy of the Scottish race. What was now spent in Canada, His Lordship said, would be repaid a thousandfold by the loyalty of a great people, who would become one of the greatest nations in the world.

W. J. E. Martin addressed the assembly in respect to the work of the Presbyterian church of Canada. J. M. Duncan spoke in connection with colonial missions, dealing especially with the problem of immigration to Canada.

Punishment for Crookedness.

SASKATOON, May 30.—A. W. Hooper, the former Nutana merchant who created a sensation in this city a year ago when he took over the drygoods and grocery business of B. A. Archibald, was today sentenced to 18 months at hard labor in Prince Albert. Hooper was found guilty of defrauding the Marshall Wells Mercantile Co. of Winnipeg out of goods to the value of $850. There were no less than six charges of obtaining goods under false pretences brought against him. He has a wife and family in England.

PRESENTS CLAIMS OF THE CAPITAL

Committee Urges Advantages of Victoria As University City to Members of the Site Commission

Victorians presented reasons why the vicinity of this city offers the greatest advantages as the seat of the British Columbia University to the members of the University Site Commission yesterday morning, at the government buildings. The commissioners sat in the executive chamber and heard an array of argument given by various members of the citizens' committee. Dr. Weldon, the chairman of the commission, presided, Principal Murray, of Saskatchewan University, acting as secretary.

Mr. George Jay introduced the Victoria delegation, and called upon the Rev. W. W. Bolton, warden of the University school for boys to open the case for Victoria. Mr. Bolton said: "Mr. Chairman and gentlemen—'Before so august a body as yourselves, and on so unique an occasion, I could well have wished that so weighty a matter as stating the case for the University of British Columbia to be built near Victoria had been placed in other and abler hands. For this day is the climax of twenty years' waiting. Some few will remember the effort then made, we worked hard, but our labor was abortive. I took it that we were premature and went on hoping and waiting. But now, at last, the day has come—the hour has struck—the friendly contest is on—a whole province watches and waits. No wonder the burden is weighty and I feel quite unable to do justice to so great a cause. And yet, perhaps, it is most fitting that I should lead the way, for I am neither politician nor lawyer, public man nor man of business; only a simple instructor of youth—one of yourselves—of the like noble profession, a teacher. We have had like experience. I can then speak as man to man."

UNTIMELY SNOW

Fierce Blizzard Sweeping Across Lake Superior and Country Surrounding It.

DETROIT, Mich., May 20.—Reports for Calumet, Mich., says that Lake Superior and the surrounding country are in the grip of a fierce blizzard, with high northeast winds and a heavy snow fall. All boats are seeking refuge from the gales. Wire and train services are demoralized.

STRUCK BOTTOM

Another Liner Comes to Grief at Cap a la Roche, in St. Lawrence River.

MONTREAL, May 30.—Another ocean liner has got into trouble at Cap a la Roche, the second within three weeks. The steamer Crown of Castile, bound from the West Indies, came slowly into port and reported having struck a huge rock in the Cap a la Roche channel on Saturday night. The shock made the ship tremble from stem to stern, and the pumps were immediately started. The boat will be surveyed and a strict investigation held, as the accident occurred at the point where the passenger liner Grampian grounded three weeks ago. Thos. Robbin, manager of the Shipping Federation, left for Ottawa tonight to urge upon Hon. Mr. Brodeur the necessity of making this portion of the channel absolutely safe. Cap a la Roche is thirty miles above Quebec and always has been the most dangerous spot in the St. Lawrence.

OLD MEN IN BLUE MARCH PAINFULLY

Remnant of New York's Contribution to Northern Civil War Army Pass in Review Before President Taft

MANY OF VETERANS MAVE TO BE AIDED

Parade of Work Horses Forms Feature of Decoration Day Parade—Two Memorial Tablets Unveiled

NEW YORK, May 30.—Before the President of the United States there passed in review today what remains of New York's contribution to the Civil war.

The President had come from Washington especially to see them pass by the reviewing stand at the foot of the soldiers' and sailors' monument on Riverside Drive, and as the veterans trudged by they quickened their stiff muscles and raised their grey heads higher. But the blue lines waved old feet shuffled over the roadway and some of the men who marched behind the ragged flags spent quickly what strength they had and kept their places only with the help of more stalwart comrades.

The parade was nearly three hours in passing, but all this the President stood bareheaded in the stand, bowing as the veterans trooped by. He was cheered by the crowds as he drove with his escort from his brother's residence down town to the reviewing stand, but when the survivors of Gettysburg and Port Hudson swept into sight, the President was almost forgotten in the presence of the veterans of the past. After the parade there was a short exercise at the base of the monument. President Taft returned to Washington tonight.

A feature of the Memorial day celebration was the work horse parade up Fifth avenue and Twenty-fifth street. Two thousand dollars in cash and many medals and blue ribbons were presented from the reviewing stand by Mrs. Russell Sage and Mrs. James S. Peyer, the latter president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the S. P. C. A. There were 1,250 horses in line.

Two tablets of historic interest were unveiled during the day. Henry George, about four years of age, drew down an American flag fastened to the front of the Union Square Hotel, Fourth avenue, near Fourteenth street, and displayed a tablet which contained a bronze replica of his grandfather's features. After a brief speech by Louis F. Post, of Chicago, an old time friend of Henry George, the audience moved up the avenue two blocks and there saw unveiled a tablet to the memory of William Garrison.

OKANAGAN FRUIT CROP EXCELLENT

Expert Grower Predicts That All Previous Records for Production in the Valley Will Be Surpassed This Season.

VANCOUVER, May 30.—All records for fruit production in the Okanagan will be broken this year, according to W. Stanley Ricardo, manager of the Coldstream Ranch, who is here today. The prediction carried great weight, in view of his well known conservative nature. The Coldstream, or Aberdeen ranch, is situated some miles from Vernon, and is splendidly irrigated.

"There is now every indication that the Okanagan Valley will yield a 500 car crop this season. I refer to apples, plums, prunes and peaches, small fruits not being included in the estimate," said Mr. Ricardo.

"This will mean a crop three times larger than last season's, due partly to young trees coming into bearing for the first time.

The orchards along the whole length of the valley never looked better. The trees escaped frost, and promise to bring to maturity a superior class of fruit. The fruitgrowing industry up there will continue to assume ever-increasing proportions owing to the large number of new orchards planted every year. There is an unlimited market for large and small fruits in the prairie provinces, and Okanagan apples have already attracted English buyers to the district, the fame of the fruit having already been established in England."

SAVE EMIGRANTS FOR DOMINIONS

Suggestion for Diversion of Emigration Flow From Britain From Foreign Countries to Parts of Empire

LONDON, May 30.—A conference convened by the Royal Colonial Institute today considered the object of considering the diversion of the stream of British emigration now going outside the Empire to the British Dominions over seas.

Among the subjects submitted by the Institute for discussion were the possibility of some measure of co-operation among the emigration societies, the possibility of utilizing labor exchanges for emigration, and the suggestion that the Government call a subsidiary conference to formulate proposals for submission to the Imperial conference to be held in 1911.

Forty-four societies sent delegates. Sir James Bevan Edwards, the chairman, in order to show how great the stream of persons going outside the Empire was, mentioned that last year 110,000 emigrants went to the United States and only 86,000 to Canada, 27,000 to Australia and New Zealand and 22,000 to the Cape Colony.

Lord Dundonald opened the discussion, and expressed the view that Great Britain neglected the resources which the value of her ancestors had placed at her disposal. Emigration problems, he said, would best be solved by the great centres of population acquiring fertile estates throughout the Empire where they could send those who could not get work in this country. He believed investments in such estates would be amply remunerated, the prospects being that they would get their money back with a hundred per cent. increase.

SCORES CONDITION OF THE HOSPITAL

Medical Health Officer Declares Isolation Buildings Are in Shocking Condition—New Matron Appointed

If Medical Health Officer Dr. Hall had any doubt as to his status while occupying the civic position, whether he may indulge in practice of his profession while carrying out the duties to which he was recently appointed, his doubts were definitely settled last night. Dr. Hall, when questioned by Mayor Morley, stated that he quite understood the basis on which he had been engaged but the Mayor took occasion to remind him several times that he must confine his attention solely to civic affairs. However in view of the fact that Dr. Hall had several patients under his care at the time he was appointed to office, he he permitted to continue to look after their welfare though a broad hint was conveyed to him that it would be just as well if he brought his patients to a state of health where they would no longer require his services and that as quickly as possible.

Makes Report.
The medical health officer's first report since his appointment was presented to the council sitting as the board of health. The report was as follows:

Gentlemen:—Having held office so short a time I am unable to give a very comprehensive or definite report regarding health matters in the city. A month is too short a time to become acquainted with the workings of a department and I prefer to go slow and be sure of my ground before recommending changes. However I have no hesitation in condemning the present buildings and accommodations at the Isolation hospital. To put in mildly the Isolation Hospital is in a shocking condition and requires radical alterations. I have spent considerable time considering improvements and hoped that I would have been able at this meeting to have presented a complete and definite plan for the rebuilding of the hospital and I am sorry I can not do so but hope to be able to in a few days. I am pleased to be able to report that there is very little contagious disease in the city at the present time. In the course of a few days all of the present patients, with the exception of a couple of scarlet fever cases, will be discharged.

I have commenced an inspection of the private schools in the city which heretofore have not had any medical inspection. I propose endeavoring to carry out a preventative course rather than a curative one as far as possible.

New Matron.
I have considered the application referred to me for the position of matron and I recommend Miss E. B. Fenton for the position. Miss Fenton is a trained nurse of eight years experience with eighteen months experience in isolation work at the Isolation hospital, London, Eng.

There are some matters in general I might draw the attention of the board to. I do not think any sewer should be allowed to empty into the harbor. I would advise discouraging the septic tank system as much as possible. Adopting garbage cans as recommended by the sanitary inspection board is a wise move. This would tend to make people burn more of their garbage which after all is the best way to dispose of it.

I would advise frequent flushing of sewers in the hot weather, particularly in the congested part of the city, such as the business section. If this is not done bad odors will escape from the man holes.

I think it would be wise to look into the future a little and make ample provisions for the children and adults being able to obtain plenty of fresh air and sunshine by providing plenty of parks. The parks should not be too large and have more of them so that children will not be required to go too far from home in order to enjoy them. The public parks or squares are particularly necessary where the poorer class reside.

The destruction of pests on trees, etc., should be transferred to the park superintendent as it was nothing to do with the health of the city.

GEO. A. B. HALL.
The report was adopted so far as the appointment of Miss Fenton as matron of the Isolation hospital.

Office Accommodation.
Dr. Hall asked for office accommodation and some discussion took place on the matter. Alderman McKeown suggested that the attic of the city hall could be utilized. Nothing was decided during the board of health meeting but at the subsequent meeting of the council the mayor's suggestion that the present portion of the council chamber used for council meetings and facing on Douglas street be partitioned off and the council sessions be held in that part of the chamber which will be left, the part taken to be divided into necessary offices for civic purposes being adopted. By this change the deliberations of the council will be removed from the disturbance of the passing cars on the streets without at the same time being brought nearer to the primitive heating arrangements, a move which in winter would prove of benefit to the civic legislators.

NOT THEIR FAULT; BORN THAT WAY

Prof. Cooper, Famous Phrenologist and Native Victorian, Addressed Crowd on Character Reading

A highly instructive address, on the delineation of character through a study of the skull, was delivered by Prof. H. S. Cooper, before a large audience, at the First Congregational church last evening.

Prof. Cooper is no stranger to Victoria, having been born here and a resident for many years. When what is now a goodly city, the capital of a wealthy province, was little more than a Hudson Bay post, an outpost principally useful because of its advantages as a centre for angling in trade with the Indians, he moved about the village streets, a youth just as full of life and mischief as the majority of that ilk. It was while so engaged that an accident occurred which deprived him of his eyesight and the professor tells of the goodness of his boyhood comrades in standing by him, in directing his steps that he might take part in their sport, after he had left the sickbed.

Leaving Victoria, Prof. Cooper began the study of phrenology, became remarkably proficient, and has entertained and benefited thousands throughout the United States. What he had to say last night was listened to with attention, first because of the fact that he is a native son, and afterwards why it is clear to the student that the one is the exemplification of military genius and energy and the other of the spiritual as well as of restless, dynamic energy.

In concluding the professor gave a series of readings a number of prominent Victorians passing under his discerning hands. He made it clear to them that it wasn't their fault that in one instance there was apparent the characteristics of an extremist and, in another, those of one who was more inclined to the invention of labor-saving devices than the practice of the crude modern methods, necessitating physical activity. It wasn't their fault. They were born that way.

"Degeneracy and Genius" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Prof. Cooper this evening.

MADE PRESENTATION

Congregation of St. Saviour's Church Tender Departing Warden Tribute of Esteem.

At a meeting of the congregation of St. Saviour's church, Victoria West after the evening service a presentation was made to Mr. C. Lyons Foster, the people's churchwarden, who is leaving the city.

The proceedings were opened by the rector, who spoke of the good work which Mr. Foster had done both as churchwarden and as a member of the choir, and said how much they would miss him from the church. Mr. Beaumont Boggs followed with a short speech in which he dwelt upon the valuable service rendered to the church by Mr. Foster in his skillful handling of its finances, by means of which the serious debt that had been on the church when he took office had been entirely wiped out.

Mr. C. J. Carey, the rector's warden, then read an address, after which the rector handed to Mr. Foster a handsome silver inkstand bearing the inscription: "St. Lyons Foster, 1910, from the congregation of St. Saviour's church, Victoria" and said, "Mr. Foster in the name of the congregation of St. Saviour's church I beg you to accept this inkstand as a mark of our esteem and in recognition of the valuable services you have rendered to the church."

In his reply Mr. Foster deprecated the idea that he had been any more responsible for the marked improvement in the affairs of the church than the other members of the finance committee and said that any work which he had done for the church had been its own reward in the interest it had brought into his life; he thanked the congregation for their handsome present and said that he would ever cherish it in memory of their kindness and of the happy connection with St. Saviour's church.

BOARD ACTS UPON REPRESENTATIONS

Nursery Stock to Be Inspected After Receipt by Consignee—Inspection to Be Maintained Rigidly

While routine work to a large extent monopolized the attention of the Provincial Board of Horticulture at its just completed sessions in this city, one or two matters of a special character were disposed of that are of far-reaching interest in relation to fruit and flower culture. One of these arose out of the presentation of their grievances in connection with the inspection of greenhouse plants, herbaceous perennials, bulbs and coniferous tubers by a delegation of provincial florists, of which Mr. Woodward was chairman, with him also being Messrs. Wallace, Brown (Vancouver), Ohlson, Callow, and others.

After carefully considering the arguments advanced by these gentlemen, the Board arrived at the conclusion that, having regard to the interests of the florists it is necessary that a change should be effected in the system of inspection. Hereafter all greenhouse plants, bulbs and tubers consigned to Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster florists and greenhouse men will be forwarded direct to the consignees, and will be inspected upon arrival at the greenhouses.

This will meet the wishes of the florists, and at the same time guard against any damage being done to tender stock by unpacking and repacking, or by unavoidable delays at the Vancouver inspection station.

More Accommodation.
It was also decided by the Board at its just completed session that in the interests of the nurserymen, it is imperative that steps should be taken before next season to increase the accommodation at the Vancouver inspection station so as to facilitate and expedite inspection of the large consignments of nursery stock which arrive during the shipping season. As many as nine carloads this spring were in the station at one time, and owing to insufficiency of room it proved quite impossible to inspect this large amount of stock so as to secure delivery to the importers with the minimum of delay.

The Board were unanimously of the opinion that inspection should be rigidly maintained in the interests both of the fruit growers and of the province generally. Quantities of the larvae of the gipsy moth have this year been discovered in time and French stocks, their introduction would be a great calamity to the province, and the provincial fruit inspector is to be congratulated upon the rigid inspection enforced by him, and through which there has been kept out of British Columbia this dreaded pest that has wrought so great havoc elsewhere.

The members of the Board reported for their several districts that there is every indication of an unprecedented yield this year of fruits of all varieties, the most serious problem which now confronts the growers being that of securing the necessary supply of labor for harvesting the crop.

"Navigation of the Fraser will some day be possible from its mouth to the Tete Jaune Cache," said Mr. McKay. "The chief need of the district is roads and transportation."

BREWERS ARE HARD HIT BY BUDGET

Assert Public Must Pay the Sum Needed to Meet Burdens of Lloyd George's Financial Measure

(By W. Hamilton Rhodes)
LONDON, May 30.—Though the price of beer is shortly to be raised to the working man, the exact amount of the increase will remain uncertain until the London brewers are able to evolve some sort of order out of the chaos in which Mr. Lloyd George had plunged the industry.

At the present time the great license trade, manufacturing and retail, with its capital of many millions, is in a state of indescribable muddle. Brewery shareholders, who include some of the poorest in the land, the aged and the infirm, for whom small amounts have been invested in trust—have lost great sums of money, while the trade as a whole has to find by July 1st the sum of $10,500,000.

"Thousands of licensees will be unable to find the money on that date," said Mr. Graham Aldous, of the Kilbourn Brewery. "Those who are tied up will go to the brewers, distillers, and wine merchants for assistance, but the latter have themselves yet to find a way of raising money."

"The free tenants will be driven to the hands of the second-class money lenders. If that had been Mr. Lloyd George's avowed object he

A statement made by Mr. Andrew Motion, chairman of the Cannon Brewery Company, illustrates the unprecedented financial difficulties of the trade.

"We do not pay any dividend on the ordinary shares or on the preferred ordinary shares," he said, "and the dividend on the preference shares, which are held by between three and four thousand persons in amounts of $250 and upwards, is in jeopardy."

"The license duties of this company before the last budget cost $43,000, which was paid in the ordinary way last October in advance, for the following twelve months. That is to say, between now and October, we have to find $377,500 about $335,000 more than if Lloyd George had not singled our trade out for victimizing purposes in his budget."

"Where does Mr. Lloyd George think we are going to get this extra $335,000 from? Our money is sunk in the business. What business firm keeps a vast sum like that doing nothing? This state of affairs sim-

INDUCTED AS RECTOR OF CHRIST CHURCH

Old Time Customs of Anglican Faith Observed in Connection With Institution of the Rev. A. J. Doull

An interesting ceremony, the institution of the Rev. A. J. Doull, as rector, in which the old-time customs of the Anglican church were carried out took place in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday morning. The services opened with the processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," and morning prayer by Archdeacon Scriven. The Right Rev. Bishop Perrin read the lesson after which the Archdeacon conducted the Rev. A. J. Doull to the chancel steps when the ceremony of institution commenced.

The bishop explained fully the meaning of the service which was divided into two parts. The first part was the institution of the new rector to the spiritual charge of the parish; the second being his induction to the temporalities of the benefice. Following the explanation the bishop read the letter of Dimissory from the Bishop of Montreal, in which diocese Mr. Doull had been working, and instructed the Archdeacon to administer the declaration and oaths. These consisted of the subscription to the book of Common Prayer, the oath of allegiance to King George, and of obedience to the Bishop of Columbia in all things lawful and honest, and subscription to the canons of the diocese. A special prayer, with the Veni Creator, was then said and the bishop instituted Mr. Doull to the charge of the souls of the people of the parish.

Receives the Keys.

Following this ceremony the churchwardens conducted the Archdeacon and Mr. Doull to the west end of the church where the keys of the sacred edifice were handed to Mr. Doull by Mr. A. D. Crease, the senior churchwarden. The Archdeacon then inducted the new rector into the emoluments and temporalities which were originally given by the Hudson Bay company for the use of the rector of Christ Church. The ceremony concluded with the ringing of the bell by Mr. Doull, an ancient custom intended to proclaim to the parishioners the fact of the rector's induction.

The service proceeded with the singing of a hymn. Holy communion was celebrated by the Rev. W. Barton. In the course of his sermon the bishop emphasized the fact that spiritual jurisdiction and authority were now given to the new rector who was pledged to teach, not what he chose, or what the people chose, but the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England. It was a glorious heritage handed down from the earliest teachers, still ministered the same sacraments in the same cathedrals. The people of Canada were the offspring of that great church, and were bound, in spite of all opposition and denial to maintain unflinchingly the whole of the faith once delivered to the saints. The bishop begged the congregation to receive their rector, not only as a new comer, but as their parish clergyman, avoiding all criticisms, and in case of any misunderstanding which might arise, he asked them to at once seek the explanation which in all probability would be easily forthcoming.

Before concluding the bishop addressed a few words to the rector on the duties of his office, and concluded with an appeal for mutual prayer and intercession.

The choir was present during the entire service and sang the Gloria in Excelsis and the Sevenfold Amen. A reception will be offered to the Rev. A. J. Doull and Mrs. Doull, at the Christ Church schoolroom this evening, from 8 to 10. All the parishioners are cordially invited to be present.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF STEWART LOTS

Good Prices Realized at Opening Day of Auction of Province's Holdings in Northern Mining Town

One hundred and forty-four lots in the townsite of Stewart, out of a total of 138 included in the Government holdings in that new city of so great promise, were yesterday disposed of by auction by Mr. Stewart Williams, the sale upon which the interest of all Canadian Northwest investors has during some weeks past been focussed—a total of $278,425 being realized, or an average of almost $2,000 per lot—$1,934 to be scrupulously exact.

The bidding started with the double-corner lot 1-2, in block 3, which after spirited bidding in jumps of $100, was finally knocked down to A. B. Mackenzie, who is understood to represent a Victoria and Vancouver syndicate, and who took a very prominent part among the purchasers of the day. The price paid for the introductory offering of the sale, a sale destined to be historic as marking public appreciation of the splendid destiny of the new city on the Portland Canal, was $2,600. The general average of prices advanced appreciably and steadily as the sale progressed, and as blocks further back from the water were offered, until a top price for the day of $10,000 was recorded for lot 1-2, block 14, which was after much spirited bidding declared the property of A. F. Griffiths, another prominent investor of the day. It was both interesting and deeply significant that for this, as well as numerous other choice offerings of the day, the Stewart Land Co. was conspicuous among the competitors. The bidders attending numbered in all upwards of four hundred, Victoria and Vancouver, with Prince Rupert being chiefly conspicuous, while Seattle, Stewart and the representatives of eastern capital bore their full share in the competition for holdings that are reasonably certain to largely appreciate in value during the coming few months. The first day's offerings were all comprised in blocks 3, 5, 7, 14, 18 and 19, sub-division 466, leaving 94 lots in all in blocks contained in sub-division 468 to be disposed of today, the sale being resumed at 10.30 this morning. A total of from $500,000 to $600,000 is suggested as the ultimate proceeds of the sale, the terms of which are 25 per cent. down, and the remainder in annual instalments. There could be no improvement suggested upon the general arrangements for yesterday's sale, in which connection many and sincere compliments are paid the auctioneers in charge.

AMUSEMENTS

New Grand Theatre

The best variety bill for a long time is at the Grand this week. The bills produced there lately have been topping over one another in popularity, but the present one will have them all distanced. The Navarro trio, equilibrists, lead the bill for the rough and difficult work, and the house rings with applause as the final act of this act is completed. One of the performers drops face down from the top of barrels placed in the air. He falls on to the raised hands of a man standing on the stage, who has a woman locked round his body. With the added weight he catches the falling man by the hands, and raises him to arms height in the air.

The physical culture misses show a clean and decidedly new contortion act, in which bag punching is the principal feature. At this work the pair are skilled, and have seven bags on the stage. Miss Excella gives a demonstration of punching a bag suspended and without a backboard. Several recalls were won by their last night. Phil Staton, the comedian, whose weight is roughly figured at 300 lbs., brings a pianologue and a monologue that gets him the next big hand to the Navarros. His amusing turn is mostly directed to his misfortune, which he pretends to be very fond of, and doubtless makes it pay.

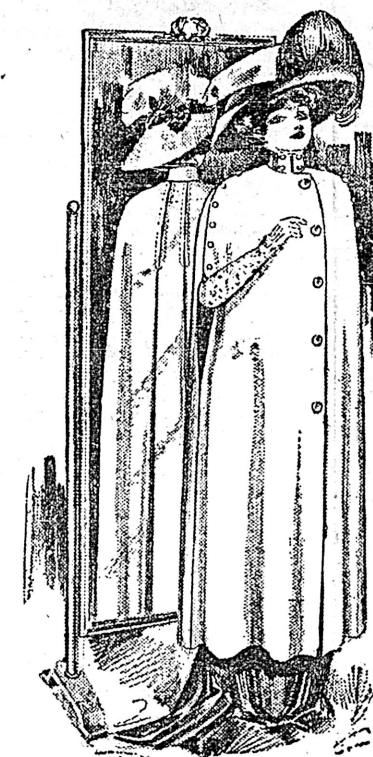

Emelle Benner, the woman with a baritone voice, sings three selections. She has a stage presence that is remarkably attractive and is magnificently costumed. Miss Benner's voice is remarkable and her act is appreciated. Leslie A. Bates a black face man won much applause for his efforts in opening the show. He will be popular here. Thomas J. Price last night got a share of the popularity for his rendering of the songs, and the moving pictures were laughable and interesting. There are also pictures of the Victoria Fire Brigade.

NO SATISFACTION FOR THE OWNERS

Aldermen Chafe at Delay in Fort Street Improvement Scheme But Matters Must Run Their Slow Course

The delay in the completion of the preliminary steps to the Fort street improvement and widening scheme proved the chief cause of aldermanic eloquence at last night's council meeting and before the half hour's cross-firing was concluded the city solicitor had come in for his accustomed weekly criticism, the discussion branched off into several subjects entirely foreign to the matter in hand and the information sought for by Alderman Bannerman, who chafed at what he declared to have been needless and unexplainable delay on the part of the officials, was not forthcoming. The discussion was marked by the presence of some heat and indicated clearly that unanimity is not a conspicuous element in civic government at present.

The Colbert Plumbing & Heating Co. wrote complaining that it had been forced to delay the erection of its proposed new building on Fort street awaiting the definite decision as to the widening programme now under consideration for the past few months. The company desired to secure the new street line or a verification of the old line before it starts building.

City Solicitor Mann stated the engineer can not give the street line until the owners interested have filed their claims for compensation under the street widening scheme. When this is done, if the claims are not excessive, the city could then decide what to do.

Mayor Morley was surprised to hear that there could be any doubt as to whether the work should be done. He had believed that the council had decided that the work should be completed.

Criticism Methods.

Alderman Bannerman was emphatic in his denunciation of the delay which has already taken place. He understood that notices had been issued under which the owners have sixty days in which to present any claim they may feel they have for compensation and at the end of that time the owners may decide to block the improvement scheme. Why had not this work been done in the first place? Had it been done those owners who desire to erect buildings would know by now just where they stood, whether they could build to the old line or to the new line. Why had not the city solicitor advised the council of these possible delays?

The answer of the city solicitor to this question, that he did not feel called upon to give advice until he had been asked, aroused Alderman Bannerman's ire. The latter failed to see what the solicitor was there for if not to guide the council in legal matters whether asked or not.

"A remarkable state of affairs," said Alderman Bannerman.

"A most deplorable condition of things," echoed his worship who declared the owners were willing to bear the expense of improving the thoroughfare. After the bylaw has been put through the council and owners find out that expropriation proceedings have to be gone through but on wrong principles.

These proceedings should have all been worked out in advance and no delay would then have been experienced.

Blames Registry Office.

The solicitor stated the notices had been sent out five days ago and accordingly nothing could be done for fifty-five days. The notices would have been issued before but the names of owners could not be secured from the registry office earlier owing to pressure of business there.

Then Alderman Sargison objected to the indifferent manner in which the scheme had been treated from the start. He blamed the mayor for having dubbed the improvement scheme a more real estate booming proposition and it had evidently been in that spirit that the whole matter had been approached and carried through. "It was a pity the mayor could not see that these matters were carried out properly from the start."

"I'm not the city solicitor, engineer or assessor," replied his worship with heat. "Pay me the money and I'll do their work."

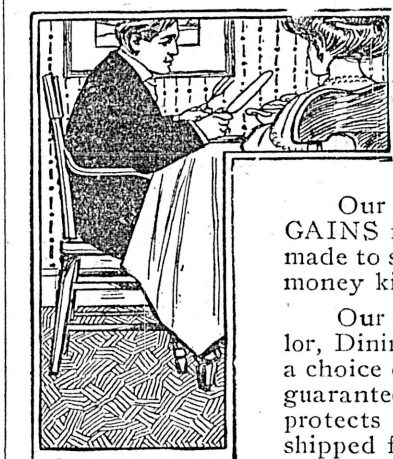

Alderman Ross foresaw lots of trouble if the city did not fix things at once. Visions of damage suits floated before his aldermanic mind.

"Now it has switched to the registry office," remarked Alderman Langley when the city solicitor again attempted to blame the land office for the delay and the discussion ended with the mayor's admonition that "it is a lesson we should take home with us."

Messrs. Colbert & Co. will be advised that the city cannot give the street lines at present.

THE UNIVERSITY

The University Commissioners held their first meeting yesterday and heard what was presented in favor of the location of the institution in the vicinity of Victoria. The Colonist has refrained from dealing with the merits of the case pending its statement by those upon whom the duty of presenting it to the Commissioners was cast, but now that this has been done we feel that the field is open for the discussion of the subject from every point of view. It seems to us desirable that the Commissioners should have impressed upon their minds as strongly as possible all considerations which ought to determine the decision of the exceedingly important question that they are called upon to decide. While they occupy a quasi-judicial position, the discussion of the subject need not be carried on as a suit at law would be, for the issue is not inter partes, but an abstract one in which we all are alike, presumably at least, desirous that the decision shall go, not upon local considerations, but upon reasons that will bear upon the usefulness of the University as the crown of British Columbia's educational system.

It can be said truthfully for those who presented the case for this part of the province, that they approached in it no local spirit, but endeavored to make it plain to the Commissioners that there are reasons of a practical character why it is better in the interests of the whole province that the University should be established at the southern end of Vancouver Island than elsewhere, and these reasons were advanced without any expression of hostility to other parts of the province and without any attempt to depreciate the advantages that other localities might have to offer. An effort was made to place the case fairly before the Commissioners and to set forth nothing to which any other locality in the province can possibly take exception. The strength of Victoria's case does not depend upon the defects of the case that may be presented for any other locality, but upon its own intrinsic merits. The only aspect of the question upon which anything was said that made any other locality contrast unfavorably with Victoria was that bearing upon meteorological conditions, and the contrast here only arose out of inspection of the official meteorological returns. Not one of those who addressed the Commissioners, spoke unfavorably of the climatic conditions existing in other parts of the province. Stress was laid upon the favorable climate of Victoria as shown by the weather returns and the experience of florists, and such comparisons as these facts suggested were left to the Commissioners themselves.

The attention of the Commissioners was directed to the fact that they were not called upon to decide according to the wishes of others, and that local preponderance of population ought to be a determining factor in their decision. It was pointed out to the Commissioners that in the area lying west of the Hope Mountains and south of a line drawn from Hope to Alberni about four-fifths of the present population of the province is now resident, but that this area is not more than one seventy-fifth part of the whole province, and hence the future distribution of population cannot be judged from present conditions. No one in Victoria disputes the fact that through the development of recent years the increase of population around Burrard Inlet and the Lower Fraser has been very rapid, and far in excess of what it has been elsewhere, but we do dispute that the disproportion now existing from the point of population between that district and the rest of the province can be of a permanent character. Not even the most earnest advocate of Vancouver as a site for the University would make any such contention. Hence, the argument which might be based upon the present distribution of population, however weighty it might be if the subject to which it was directed were only one of temporary importance, will fall to the ground when applied to an institution intended to serve the purposes of the whole province and to be of a permanent character.

The question of accessibility was also touched upon, and it was pointed out that, in view of the vastness of the area of the province, the difference of a few score miles in the distance from any one point to any other point was too insignificant to be taken into account.

Great stress was laid upon the educational history of Victoria. Here again no comparisons were made, those who addressed the Commissioners on, that point contenting themselves with relating incontrovertible facts and giving the reasons for them. It was felt by those who had the preparation of the case that the experience in the past was a fairly safe guide to what might reasonably be expected in the future, because the conditions that have influenced the action of independent educationalists are of a permanent nature. In this connection the peculiar suitability of Victoria from the standpoint of University sports was dwelt upon and conclusive evidence was given that conditions here are exceedingly favorable. Here again the speakers resisted any temptation to draw comparisons, being satisfied that simply stating the facts as they are, they made out a case that is unanswerable.

The special features of the case as they appear from the woman's point of view were fully set forth, and incidentally in this connection the advantages of this locality from the standpoint of students themselves was dwelt upon. This phase of the subject is broader than the application made of it by the lady who presented it. She was careful to speak only from the woman's point of view, but there was not one of her arguments that is not of equal weight when applied to the men, who shall attend the University. One value of the presentation, made as it was, apart from the strength of the arguments advanced, consists in the fact that it directed the attention of the Commissioners to the important factor which the education of young women will play in the work of the institution. From this point of view, we think it can be fairly said that in respect of the matter of location it is an instance of Victoria "first and the rest nowhere."

That there may be no local misunderstanding of the manner in which the subject was laid before the Commissioners, we may add that no attempt was made to impress upon them the desirability of locating the University within the corporate limits of Victoria. Indeed such allusions to actual sites as were made referred to places outside those limits. We think it can be said that the case was conducted in a spirit fully in keeping with the greatness of the issue involved, and with an absence of local feeling worthy of a locality that has so much to recommend it as Victoria has. We may add that the Commissioners have decided that they will content themselves with hearing what the advocates of the several localities may desire to advance, and will not conduct an examination of those who appear before them. They gave evidence that they are approaching the consideration of the subject with open minds and a desire to reach a decision that will be in the best interests of the educational interests of the province.

THE SALE OF STEWART

The auction sale of lots in the new town of Stewart yesterday was a remarkable incident. Here we have a double lot selling for $10,000 in a townsite which was purchased from the government not long ago for $250 an acre, and there are at least eight lots to the acre. This sale shows that those persons, who have investigated the prospects of the young town, are fully convinced that its future will be permanent. The prices did not average as high as those at Prince Rupert, but they were by no means a bad second. They show the confidence felt in the building up of an important centre of population at the head of Portland Canal.

This sale is exceedingly significant of the future development of British Columbia. Hitherto the progress of the province has been largely confined to the southern portion, but in Stewart we have the beginning of the second important city in the more northerly part of the province. It is not desirable that we should attempt to draw comparisons or forecast the future in any way, but the progress of Stewart and Prince Rupert show that the future distribution of population in British Columbia cannot be determined from present conditions. A chain of cities is being built up along the coast, and no one can undertake to say how many more will be established or which of them in the days to come will be the most important.

The government will realize a very handsome sum from its share of the townsite. Such sales are likely to prove in the future a very important source of revenue. Along the several lines of railway, in course of construction or proposed, there will be many new towns and from all, or nearly all of them, the government will derive a handsome sum of money. This is very important, because the creation of new towns necessarily imposes upon the treasury new and heavy charges. The next three or four years are likely to witness many sales as that which began yesterday and will be continued today.

THE PREROGATIVE.

We are witnessing, says a recent English writer, a remarkable development of the royal prerogative. The history of the evolution of the British Constitution shows that the extent to which the prerogative has been exercised has varied from time to time. In discussing this subject during the lifetime of the late King, the Colonist advanced the proposition that in the Crown there is vested every power that may be necessary for the promotion of the well-being of the state. There are no limitations to the power of the Crown; there are no limitations to the power of Parliament. Under normal conditions no need arises for the exercise of the extreme power vested in the Crown, but no emergency is conceivable in which the sovereign may not do what the occasion demands for the protection of the national interests. He may not impose taxation; but he may obtain money by way of loan if it is required for necessary public purposes. A little consideration will show that this must be the case, for national existence would be impossible unless power was vested somewhere to do what might be requisite under any circumstances that might arise. Nor is this true of the United Kingdom alone. In the United States the powers of the President are defined by the Constitution. There was nothing in the Constitution that authorized the Emancipation Proclamation of President Lincoln, but much that seems to imply that the President had no authority to issue such a document and that, if issued, it would have no legal effect. But President Lincoln read into his authority conferred by the Constitution the power, as Commander-in-Chief of the army and as the person charged with the successful prosecution of the war against the South, to do anything that might be requisite for that purpose. The validity of his act has never been called in question, for it is self-evident that this extreme power must be vested somewhere. In the end the decision as to the validity of all acts rests with the people, in countries where popular government prevails, although that decision may come too late to alter what has been done; but the head of the nation must be prepared to act when emergency requires.

The royal prerogative is held in trust for the benefit of the people. The King of England is as much the representative of the people as though he were chosen for his post by popular ballot. In him rests the residuum of all power that has not been declared to be vested elsewhere by statute, and we are far from claiming that he might not, if the importance of the emergency seemed to call for it, disregard the positive declarations of a statute. He would in such an event summon parliament to approve of what he had done, and it would be an extreme case indeed in which the responsibility of his act would not be accepted by ministers who would answer to Parliament for it.

Herein we see the meaning of the expression, "the King can do no wrong." The King himself, as long as he can find ministers to accept the responsibility for the exercise of the prerogative, need never personally become an issue in politics, provided he yields to the wishes of the people as they may be expressed by their representatives.

The extent to which the prerogative will be exercised will depend much upon the individual who wears the Crown. There was one point upon which Queen Victoria was very insistent, namely that she must be consulted in matters of foreign policy. When Lord Palmerston was Foreign Secretary in Lord John Russell's cabinet, he sent out a despatch without acquainting Her Majesty of its contents. She at once asserted her prerogative right to be advised of what was done in respect to international relations, and Lord Palmerston was compelled to resign. In other matters Her Majesty at one time allowed things to drift to such an extent that for several years there was growing up a feeling that the monarchy was a mere figurehead. The Crown of the a mere figurehead. The Crown of England and of the United Kingdom has never been held by so insecure a tenure as at the times when the person wearing it held most aloof from personal participation in the government of the nation. It cannot be said that King Edward VII asserted the prerogative, but he gave abundant evidence that the kindly office was far other than a sinecure. He familiarized the nation with the idea of a king, who within constitutional limits, was a vital force in the life of the nation. It is to the legacy of his example that George V. succeeds and it is upon the manner in which he will employ the prerogative that the minds of the people of the world, and especially those of the United Kingdom, are concentrated. These observations are made to disabuse some people of the opinion that His Majesty is a mere puppet in the hands of his ministers, and to show that occasion may arise when he may be called upon to exercise powers of an extraordinary nature.

From present indications, Victoria will be a very busy town this summer. The City Engineer wants all the men he can get. The decision of the City Council to rush work, instead of dragging it along indefinitely is a wise one.

We do not think any one need take seriously the story that was wired from London to the effect that the United Kingdom is to be stamped into conscription as a memorial to King Edward VII. If any one has authority to say that the late King favored conscription he has yet to come forward and say so.

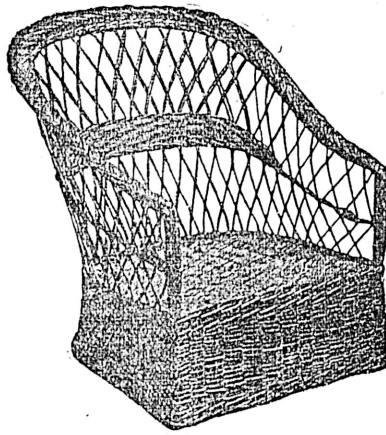

While the Smith's Hill Reservoir is behaving better than was expected, it cannot yet be given a good conduct badge. The Reservoir is "unreliable" as Artemus Ward said of his monkey. It never does the things it is expected to do, and it does those things that it is not expected to do. Nevertheless, it apparently has made up its mind to hold 12 feet of water for the present, and although this is not what it was built for, 12 feet of water is a great deal better than an empty hole in the ground. Possibly when the structure has had a little rest it may conclude to do somewhat better.

FERRO LAUNCH ENGINES

1st.—The perfect two-cycle type of marine engine is a perfect design for all motors of small horse power.

2nd.—The Ferro Engine is easily the first in the two-cycle class.

The absence of many parts brings simplicity, which greatly reduces the opportunity for trouble of any sort and which enables the inexperienced operator to run a motor boat with safety.

In Woman's Realm

Here and There

Every effort is being made at present to discover what has been the result of granting the franchise to women. In the United States both suffragists and anti-suffragists have carefully examined the political record of Colorado and both claim that their position is strengthened by the result. A writer in the New York Outlook gives the history of the movement in New Zealand and Australia and arrives at the conclusion that except in the matter of temperance reform women have had, apparently little influence over legislation in the sixteen years since they gained the privilege of voting. The writer, Paul Kennedy, seems to have entered upon his task with an open mind and to have taken great pains to become acquainted with the situation.

There was not, we are told, any undue excitement during the campaign which preceded the passing of the act for the enfranchisement of women in 1893. But— "prophecy ran riot at the time over the effect enfranchisement would have upon women, upon men, and upon the legislation of the colony. One side set forth that the franchise would transform unreasonable woman into a reasoning voter, casting her ballot with a heavy sense of awful responsibility, that at once the whole tone of politics would be refined, and that men as well as women would have no other thought than the public good. Others predicted a race of manly women, homes abandoned, children neglected, politicians returned to office who best had appealed to feminine follies. Women's place was in the home and with her children, they said, and the field of politics should be left free to the men—just as the men are saying in England and in America today.

A good deal of wild talk was indulged in on both sides, but events seem to have refuted all the prophets. With the single exception of the license question, it is more than doubtful whether in New Zealand any tangible results, good or evil, can be attributed to the political enfranchisement of women."

New Zealand women value the privilege of the franchise very highly. Eighty-two per cent of the women entitled to vote now take part in the elections. This is very nearly as large a proportion as in the case of men. The elections are carried out very quietly and the women go to the polls with as little danger of annoyance as they experience while transacting any other business.

The great majority of New Zealand women are engaged in the work of the home either as wives or daughters, only eighteen per cent being housewives. There are no large cities and the population of the islands is a million souls. There are a few rich women and just as few who suffer from want. It may be that the fact that so many of these women are dependent upon fathers or husbands or brothers accounts for the general agreement between them and the men in their political views. That there will not, for many years be any great change in this respect would seem to be indicated by the fact that there were in 1906 nearly two thousand more un-married men than women in the islands.

If, however, the advanced legislation for which New Zealand is noted, has not been, to any great extent, except in the case of temperance, inaugurated by women it is equally certain that they have not opposed it. The Progressive party has continued in power from 1891 till today. This may be owing to the dislike of women to change, but Mr. Kennedy believed that "with or without the votes of women, Seddon and his successor, Sir Joseph Ward, still would have been kept in office by men who had faith in them and whose desires these, astute politicians understood and catered to." It must not be thought, however, that even in the sixteen years in which they have had possession of the ballot New Zealand women have succeeded in doing away with the licence system. It requires a three-fifths vote to establish prohibition and this has not yet been secured. This is worthy of the attention of those who believe in the omnipotence of the ballot. It is worth noting that the infant mortality of New Zealand is very low. Of a thousand babies born in the islands, but seventy-three died in the year. This is less than half the number that die in the United States or England. While excellent laws may, and no doubt, have had their part in bringing about so desirable a result, the agricultural character of the population and the absence of overcrowded cities must have contributed towards it.

In Australia, the returns show that neither men nor women exercise their right to vote to nearly as great an extent as do the electors of New Zealand. It is only fair to say, however, that since women have begun to vote, men, as well as women, are showing a greater interest in the elections in every state except Queensland.

The writer sums up the results of his observations in this way:

"The upshot of the whole matter appears to be that in New Zealand the votes which women have had for sixteen years have changed the current of political thought as little as they have made any actual difference as yet in woman's economic and mental dependence upon man. In the Australian States, where there are found nearly all of the types of liberal legislation enacted in New Zealand, women have but recently been enfranchised, as a clear result of a progressive movement for which they can in no way be held responsible. And in Australia, as in New Zealand, women take the responsibilities of citizenship just as mere men do, show no more interest and no less in political questions than they, and cast the privileged ballot with all the male elector's usual lack of forethought and occasional studied conviction."

The London Times in a recent article has the following reference to the home life of the Royal Family: "His Consort has in every way helped him. She would not be her mother's daughter if she had not; for no more popular, no more lovable Princess ever lived within the shadow of the throne than Princess Mary of Cambridge, Duchess of Teck. The Queen's bringing up was frugal. First of all at Kensington Palace and at the White Lodge she learned to live the simple life, and the lessons of those days are bearing fruit in the way in which her own children are being brought up. Nothing could be pricier, nothing more touching, than to see those children playing about the garden and showing every sign of affection for one another. When 'Prince Eddie,' the eldest Prince, first went to school in the Britannia, his return home for the holidays gave the signs of a happy rejoicing amongst all the little people who welcomed the home-coming of their eldest brother, 'David,' as they called him in their loving way, with all the glee and demonstrative affection that love could inspire. This is but a reflection of the love that exists between their parents. Love and charity breed of love have been the leitmotif of the life of that happy home."

There is an impression among many people that the immigrants brought out by the Salvation Army from England are poor people who could not come to Canada without assistance. This is not the case. The Army plans to bring out 5,000 people during the present season. These will be men and women who have proved themselves fitted for life on the farm, or who know how to assist in household work. They must be able to pay their own expenses although the Army stands ready to assist them in any emergency that may arise after they arrive here. There is no charge for the passage, and the Army is unable to comply with the immigration laws of Canada or who are in any way unfitted for life in this country will be looked after at home. It is very important that it should be clearly understood by employers of labor in this and in other provinces that the immigrants brought out by the Army are not paupers.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE

Court of Appeal.

Campbell v. Campbell.—Will—Construction of—Legacy Giving Life time interest—Ademption. The late Captain Daniel Campbell died in 1903, leaving surviving him his wife, who died in 1908. The latter made a will in 1905, leaving, with the exception of certain small bequests, the whole of her property to three children equally. After that date, and before the death of Mrs. Campbell, her daughter, Lilly N. Campbell, obtained in her name the greater part of the estate, but in the evidence at the trial it appeared that up to the time of the death of Mrs. Campbell she admitted repeatedly that the property was in her name merely for the purpose of more easily carrying out the business matters in connection with it. Eventually she joined with one Cavanaugh in Vancouver, and then changed her views as to the ownership of the property, and claimed it as her own absolutely. Having left Vancouver, which place Cavanaugh also quitted, and there being no attempt on her part to settle up the mother's estate, which Lilly N. Campbell was sole executrix, the rest of the children brought action. It was contended on her behalf at the trial that the various properties placed in her name were gifts absolutely, and Irving J. held that such gifts had ademption, not under the will. The other children appealed.

Argument is now proceeding Woodworth for appellants (plaintiffs); Hart McFarlane and Creagh for respondent (defendant).

Before Gregory J.

The Corporation of the City of Victoria v. Silver Spring Brewing Company, limited.—Boundary—Right—Possession—right—Prescription—Official Map Act.

Action for a declaration that Lime street, a street shown by a plan filed in 1861 by one Jeremiah Nagel, is a public highway, and that possession thereof is vested in the Corporation; also for a mandamus compelling the removal of an obstruction, a building, erected on the street; an injunction to restrain the defendants from continuing the trespass, and for the appointment of a board of arbitration to determine what, if any, compensation is due to the company in respect of the lands established on Lime street under the Official Map Act. Defendants deny that there was ever any street on the property in question, and set up a possession of over 20 years. The alleged street is in Victoria West, which came into the municipal limits in 1892, prior to which date the land was controlled by the Provincial Government. The City repels that possession did not run against the Government, and in any event sixty years' possession must be shown to acquire possession against the Crown; that the Official Map Act declares that a certain survey made by the late Mr. Ralph is declared to be binding and effective, and to correctly set out the street lines according to monuments planted by the said Mr. Ralph. This map shows Lime street to be situated where the City alleges, and the lines of the street so settled show the encroachment by the defendant company.

A question of fact having arisen as to whether the City had a surface drain on Lime street in 1894, it was suggested by the Court that the City make an excavation and ascertain the fact. An adjournment was made accordingly until Wednesday.

W. J. Taylor, K.C., for the City; A. E. McPhillips, K.C., for defendants.

A Long Experience

Night twenty-five years ago, I started teaching and still am at the task. So long an age is this that I am about to become a pedagogical grandfather. The children of the children who learned their ABC from me are nearly ready to sit on my knee and learn the same. Therefore my witness counts—long experience backs it up. "I realize the responsibility of what I say. In other places you will find men who have taught five, ten even fifteen years, but over twenty years few. Now this is what I have to say: That there is no other spot in the whole of B.C. so ideal for education as Victoria. 1—Because of its restfulness; 2—because of the culture of its people; 3—because of its climate; 4—because of the absence of deteriorating attractions. Victoria is a city of homes—not transients—hence its restfulness. Victoria is a settled and educated community, and culture ever thrives in such an environment. It may be said that I have had no experience of other places; that I have boxed myself up in Victoria and have a narrow view. But I know this island as no other living man does, from end to end, from coast to coast, and I have travelled well over the lower mainland. Aside from this is the witness of hundreds of parents, always the same. 'My home is charming, but not the place for my boy.' "Gentlemen, we as a city do not come before you unprepared, a committee of citizens has been at work for months quietly preparing matter for your consideration. It would be impossible for me, and would over weary you, were I to attempt at this hour to give you details of this mass of information. We shall solve the difficulty by asking you to accept at our hands our printed brief—to be read and studied at your leisure. I shall give you an outline of the whole, touching upon those points with which I am most familiar.

The Case in Brief

"We take it that the aim of university life is the highest development of the individual. This development takes four forms: Scholarastically, morally, socially, athletically. Scholarastically, the main branches of university teaching are: The arts and sciences, medicine and law, and we show you at length what Victoria has to offer as to each of these. Morally: We show you Victoria's record and its reason. Socially: We show you that Victoria can in a special way offer a warm welcome in its homes to the professors and students. Athletically: We show you that Victoria follows all forms of games.

"Then we felt that we must needs deal with the important witness borne by past and present independent educationalists. This is followed by Victoria's climatic conditions; Victoria's health conditions; Victoria's transportation facilities; winding up with the advantages of a Capital city. The question of population and the witness borne in our favor by two great living men whose hearts are bound up in education.

"Now first as to these independent educationalists—those free to come and go as they like. From the beginning of things there have been private schools in the province. At first they were naturally here only. Bishop Cridge started the first school here, then came Mr. Mogg. But twenty-five years ago there was such a school in New Westminster. Mr. Clinton (now dead) brought it to Esquimalt and said to the then rector: 'This is the true place, because of its restfulness, culture and climate.' Mr. Church has been here over twenty years. He will bear his own witness. Mr. Laing, of the Collegiate School (now dead), was here over twelve years. His large school still continues. He could have gone elsewhere. Mr. Harvey was in Vancouver for ten years, but came here after all and joined his school to mine. And the University School, that is the shining witness by reason of its permanent buildings. We could have gone elsewhere, but we know that Victoria is the place. Here, and here only, could the great boarding school of the west be built. Do you think that we would have put in our all and sunk $80,000 in those buildings and grounds you did us the honor to visit unless we were sure?

"You ask—Where have the boys come from for these schools? From all parts—Alaska and California, from Japan and China, from Honolulu and Winnipeg, from Calgary and all parts of British Columbia. We are strong in our own home boys, the truest test of a school's success, yet the mainland supplies us freely and the cry is the same—'Victoria is the place.' Take him, and send him back to me a man."

"Here, then, are five university graduates—Clinton, Church, Laing, Harvey, Bolton—all agreed on Victoria as the ideal place.

LITTLE FELLOWS LOVE THE GAME

Kiddies Play Baseball on Every Vacant Lot and Every Spare Moment — Curve Pitchers Heroes

BASEBALL has got 'em going.

The remark has been made by some wise one that the popularity of any sport in any community can be gauged by the attitude of the kids towards it. If this is true the great American game has "caught on" here with a vengeance.

"Give 'em a high one. He likes that kind. 'A barefooted youngster ties himself in a knot and delivers a curve fearful and wonderful to behold, the batter lunges right heartily, and, alas, misses. 'Aw, he can't hit 'em. We got them going. Another of the same kind and he'll fan.' So the game goes on.

Most vacant street corners, all the athletic parks, in fact wherever there is enough space for three bases the youngsters while away their spare moments in the mysteries of ball. No longer does the three-honored rounders command the patronage of the past. Any little fellow above the age of nine would scorn to call a man out by a first bounce catch. No, the rules are league rules, and the school boys are just about as well acquainted with them as Referee George Burges. In one thing they have got their seniors backed off the boards, and that's their illuminating line of fan talk.

Any lad who can prove that he can curve a sphere to the slightest extent is a hero these days; any who can catch behind the plate is held in high esteem, while those who are at all skillful are almost as highly rated as those classified as pitchers.

All schools have their baseball teams, every district possesses a kid nine, and in many instances there is civil warfare among several gangs in one section.

Yes, the youngsters are fairly daffy over the game. They would rather play than eat, and with a boy that's going some. Surely if the present state continues, Manager Wattlett will never have to go out of the city to fill possible vacancies on the first team.

Fans Worried

Hans Wagner, the great ball player, has been playing below standard for some weeks, and all kinds of rumors have been going the rounds about the famous ball player. As if to dispel some of the gloom, Wagner, though a "sick man" played shortstop for the Pirates in one game, and cleaned the bases with a three-bagger, stole a base, figured as the pivot in a double-play, made a two-base hit, and scored two runs.

Invading America

Many are the American running horses that have raced on English tracks, and a few have won. Now comes a new departure. An Englishman is to send trotting horses to compete on United States tracks. This is somewhat like carrying the war into Africa.

The invader is Mr. Louis W. Williams, of Brighton, and he has entered two European bred trotters in the stakes of the New York Grand Circuit. The two old country entries were bred in Austria.

Win Against Cobble Hill.

The Outlaws of this city Sunday journeyed to Cobble Hill, where they played the Cobble Hill nine. The score being 24 to 6, in favor of the former, who easily outclassed the sturdy farmers and played errorless ball.

Hawke did the bending and Ward the receiving for the Outlaws.

EXHIBITION MILE RACE ARRANGED

John P. Sweeney, British Columbia's Mile Champion, Will Meet Davidson, One of California's Fastest Men

Andrew Davidson, the big Californian who arrived some weeks ago, and who has come from the south with a reputation of one of California's fastest mile runners, will meet John P. Sweeney, the J. B. A. A. miller, who holds the mile championship of British Columbia, one week from the coming Saturday.

Davidson hails from the University of California, and is an athlete of no mean ability both on the track and as an oarsman. On May 24th the six-footer won the mile race at the Scotch sports from a classy field in the extra fast time of 4.42 without being pressed. In California he is credited with having done better than 4.40, which is going some for the mile. As an oarsman he shows class, being already selected to pull an oar in the J. B. A. A. crew on July 1st at Vancouver.

When Davidson meets Sweeney there should be a great exhibition of running, for Sweeney has won most of the mile events around these parts in the last year. At Nanaimo in the recent sports he started off the season by winning from a dozen starters in the record time of 4.37. When he goes up against the big giant from California, he will have to travel all the way to win, and many of the local followers of the game look for a finish that will be a matter of but a few inches. Both millers are in great condition.

Secretary Vincent K. Gray has arranged this race and is now figuring on a match between Sid Winsby, of the J.B.A.A., and Brook Vale, of the Y.M.C.A. These races will be held in connection with the first baseball match of the season that will be played at the Oak Bay diamond on Saturday, June 11th, when the J. B. A. A. nine will be pitted against a Seattle aggregation.

Yesterday afternoon the J.B.A.A. oarsmen appeared in a new role, with hundreds gathered on the Gorge bridge as spectators. "We'll try it," remarked a canoeist to his partner, gazing ear-

PROVINCIAL MEET HELD NEXT JULY

Shoot on Richmond Range July 21, 22, and 23. List of Matches Drafted at Vancouver Meeting

It was decided at a meeting of the British Columbia Rifle Association's executive held at Vancouver on Saturday night that the next provincial shoot should take place on the Richmond range on July 21st, 22nd and 23rd. Lt.-Col. Currie, of this city, occupied the chair and there were present: C. S. M. Caven and Sergt. H. Collings, of Victoria; Major Tite, Major Duff Stewart, Capt. Hart McHarg, J. D. Quine and W. Miller, of Vancouver; Mr. Vidal, of New Westminster, and the secretary, Capt. C. A. Boulton, of Vancouver.

The All Comers' and Bisley Aggregates will consist of all the matches with the exception of the Lieutenant-Governor's match, which is ten shots at 1,000 yards. The Tyro Aggregate will include these matches: Nursery, Helmecken (200 yards), Westminster and Vancouver Bankers, and Tyro teams the same.

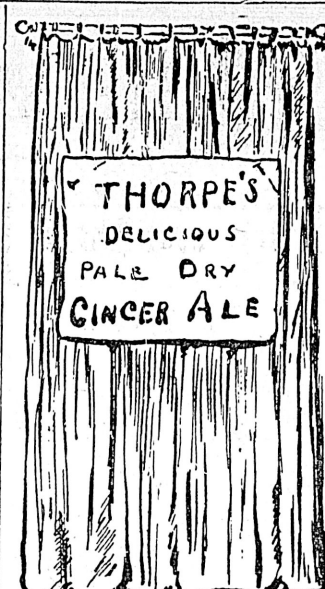

The Ross Cup Aggregate will consist of Vancouver Corporation (800 yards), Nanaimo, Victoria and Lieutenant-Governor's matches.

Regiments or associations entering teams must this year affiliate with the B. C. R. A. A. silver and bronze medal will be given with each affiliation, the fees for which will be seven and a half dollars. Considerable discussion ensued over the question of ammunition, and it was finally decided that all competitors must provide their own ammunition, which must be of Canadian government manufacture. No ammunition will be for sale on the range.

The difference in the pull-off of the Ross and Lee-Enfield rifles was discussed. Some who use the Enfield think that rifle is handicapped with a pull of five pounds against a four-pound pull on the Ross. As this is a matter which is regulated by the government, the executive were not in a position to recommend any alteration.

The following is the list of matches:

- First Day.

has elapsed since the blue and white has captured the international championship. The Bays turn has arrived. Let them force the cards.

AT HALF TIME

The Northwestern league baseball league is beginning to get interesting. For a time it looked as if Tacoma and Vancouver would get so far in front that it would be a one team battle, but now it appears that all four teams are in the running. That will not hurt the game, either.

"The people of the United States today are interested in only three events—the return of Col. Roosevelt, the baseball championship, and the San Francisco prize fight," remarks an American journal.

"Onlooker," in the Winnipeg Tribune, has this to say regarding the growing popularity of lacrosse:

"Almost every day, certainly every week, American sportsmen bear testimony to the genuine worth and the growing popularity of lacrosse, the game Canada perfected, and that has made the Yankees jealous, so much so that they decided not to be without it. At several of the big eastern universities lacrosse has been played for some time, and played very well.

The cadets of West Point are not quick to take up new things, and as a rule they never take up fads. They hung back as regards lacrosse, but it was too good a thing to let pass, and so they had to take it up. They now have a team that is acquiring the habit of going out and winning. The other day they defeated new York by

This evening at eight o'clock the executive of the Victoria lacrosse club will hold a meeting at the Victoria Sporting Goods store, when all mem-

Entries will be received for the city intermediate league, and as soon as possible after tonight there will be a schedule committee appointed to draft a season's programme for the intermediates and juniors.

Those expected at the meeting tonight are: Skene Lowe, E. Christopher, Leo Sweeney, D. S. Tait, Stan O'Kell, T. Hutchison, James Dakers, J. Hancock, W. Blake, R. Owens, P. Wilson, George O'Kell and J. P. Sweeney.

5 goals to 3. It is quite a victory for lacrosse to capture the hearts of the West Point cadets. Here is a case of a Canadian invasion capturing the future generals of the United States.

It is the opinion of a Montreal scribe that the lacrosse situation needs investigation. He writes: From the point of view of the patriot, things want looking into in the West over this lacrosse question. Reliable information has it that, outside of British Columbia, where two professional teams flourish, the only points at which lacrosse is existing at all is in Winnipeg and the Pacific is in the dis-

SPIRIT I. MAKES
VANCOUVER HOME

C. W. McIntosh of Victoria Has Taken Geary Creation to Race Old Rival Alexandra—Whitecap Also Deserts

The Spirit I. has left Victoria waters and now is anchored in Vancouver harbor waiting to be pitted against her old-time rival, the Alexandra, at the first opportunity.

C. W. MacIntosh, her owner, who is a resident of this city, took her to the Terminal City on the 24th of May. The general impression was that the popular local yachtsman was simply on pleasure bent, but when the man returned without the boat, the correct conclusion was reached, namely, that despoiling of being provided with a worthy rival here Mr. MacIntosh had guided the Geary creation to a place where she would be given something to do.

The statement is made by the Vancouver World that Mr. MacIntosh intends making his home in Vancouver and that the Spirit I. is to be enrolled with the Vancouver Yacht Club. The first is altogether incorrect and the second has not been definitely settled. It is not likely to work out unless Mr. MacIntosh disposes of his property to a Mainland enthusiast.

Vancouver Story

Here is what the World has to say in part:

Vancouver now has the distinction of being the home port of the two fastest 29-foot racing yachts on the entire Pacific coast. Bobbing peacefully at their moorings at the Royal Vancouver Yacht club anchorage in Coal Harbor are those two old rivals for supremacy in the sailing realm—the Fife designed Alexandra and the Spirit I., the first international cup racer designed and built by the Seattle boy wizard Ted Geary. The Spirit I., which has the distinction of being the only American built to ever win the Alexandra cup in a fair and square contest, is now owned by Capt. C. W. MacIntosh, formerly of Victoria. But Capt. MacIntosh has decided to make his home in Vancouver in future and last Tuesday set sail in the cup racer from Victoria, arriving on Wednesday after a leisurely trip.

The Spirit I. will now change her registry to the Royal Vancouver Yacht club's fleet and will be one of the most notable additions to the local squadron of white-winged fliers that has been made for many moons. The presence of the Geary craft in the local fleet means that Capt. E. B. Deane, owner of the Alexandra, will now consider his intention of placing the Fife-racer in commission this summer. Owing to there being no international cup races Capt. Deane had planned to devote all his attention this summer to his fast cruiser Widenwaae. But now that the Spirit I. will be here to compete in the club's regatta, Capt. Deane has already commenced to get the Alexandra's gear in shape preparatory to putting the Fife flyer in shape for racing. With two such fliers as the Alexandra and Spirit I. competing in the 29-foot class in local races to say nothing of their probable participation in the big regatta at Victoria in July there should be some of the closest and most interesting races in the history of the sport in these waters. The Spirit I. has been greatly strengthened in the hull and equipped with a much heavier mast since she won the Key City trophy at the big regatta in Seattle last year. While this has not increased her speed any she is a much better and more dependable boat now in heavy weather. The Spirit I. and Alexandra will meet for the first time this season in the R. V. Y. C. regatta over the English Bay course on June 18.

Another Deserter

Another Victoria yacht has deserted the Capital City humming-bird fleet and joined the Royal Vancouver Yacht club. This is the auxiliary yawl Whitecap, which was purchased from her former Victoria owners a few days ago by Mr. C. W. Heddle of this city and has been added to the local fleet. The Whitecap cost her new owner close to $1000. She is of the well-known Seabird type and is practically a sister boat to the Pathfinder of the local fleet. This makes three of the type in the local fleet—the Whitecap, Pathfinder and Capt. W. G. Breeze's Tamarian. The three of them should provide some interesting racing in the club regatta.

Pride Club Meeting.

Victory for Cornell.

BOSTON, Mass., May 30.—Sixteen strong-armed Cornell oarsmen swept Charles River today, the Varsity defeating Harvard in a beautiful race by a full length while the freshmen completely outclassed the crimson eight, winning by six lengths. Cornell's short choppy stroke proved superior to Harvard's long rhythmic swing. Time, Cornell, 11:23; Harvard, 11:27. In the freshman's race it was Cornell, 11:25; Harvard, 11:26.

STUDENT EQUALS
WORLD'S RECORD

Craig, of Michigan, Goes 220 Yards, in Remarkably Fast Time—Inter-Collegiate Pole Vault Mark Raised

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—The University of Pennsylvania won the intercollegiate championship track and field meet on Franklin field Saturday afternoon by the narrow margin of two points, scoring 27 1-2 points to Yale's 25 1-2.

Michigan, by the fine work of R. C. Craig, her sprinter, took third place from Princeton scoring 20 points. Princeton made 17 points, Cornell 14, Harvard 13 1-2, Syracuse 8, Amherst 6, Brown and Dartmouth each three, Columbia 2 1-2 and Wesleyan, Bowdoin and New York University each one.

The world's record in the 220 yards dash, 21 1-5 held by Webers, was equaled by Craig, of Michigan, and the inter-collegiate pole vault record of 12 feet 3 1-2 inches, held by Campbell of Yale, was raised to 12 4 3-8 inches, by Nelson, of Yale.

The championships were not decided until the final event, the 220 yard dash, was run off. Before this sprint started Yale had raised her total points to 25 1-2, or three more than Pennsylvania and there was great excitement as Craig, of Michigan, Ramsdall and Monds, of Pennsylvania, Reason and Wesleyan and Cooks, of Princeton, toed the scratch. Craig took the lead and tried hard as he could. Ramsdall who had defeated him in the 100 yard dash, could not catch him. The Western sprinter was fairly flying over the course and there was no surprise when it was announced that in winning the race he had equalled the world's record.

Victorians will incline to the opinion that the man who says that the Canadian National game was never in a more flourishing condition is on the right track. Certainly it never looked better in Victoria.

CO-OPERATION IN PEOPLING ISLAND

Prospective Settlers Anxious to Come in Batches—Development League Officers Are Flooded With Inquiries

A feature of the many inquiries reaching the offices of the Vancouver Island Development League from prospective settlers is a co-operative movement towards the taking up of land, which is not only growing in value but bids fair to prove an important factor in the development of the island. Individual inquiries in many cases represent a number of families anxious to immigrate here in a body, the would-be settlers evidently being of the opinion that by locating near each other mutual arrangements will contribute towards their prosperity.

The feature of the inquiry, which with each succeeding batch of letters is growing more pronounced is regarded as a most hopeful sign by members of the development league, who point out that the claims of a certain district will often appeal more readily to a body of settlers than to individuals. A considerable impetus seems likely to take place in the peopling of the island this summer. Nearly all the inquiries received since spring opened are from persons anxious to locate on land, and in the majority of instances the writers have had practical experience as farmers.

This year's efforts of the development league are only beginning to bear fruit as the advertising propaganda has only been in force for a few weeks and sufficient time has not yet elapsed for replies to come in from the British Isles. Practically all the inquiries received up to the present are from residents of eastern Canada and the north-west provinces.

PRESENTS CLAIMS OF THE CAPITAL

Clean Sport.
Now of Athletics: We as educationalists know the important part recreation must need play in university life. It cannot be ignored, and we know the supreme importance of clean sport. Dishonorable sport drags down a people—even a nation. It is easy to say that "sport in our town is clean," but such a statement counts for nothing if the speaker has not had practical experience. I must needs give you proof that my words may weigh with you. I pass over my own record as an athlete, an old blue. Since coming to B. C. I have been a member of both provincial and local amateur football clubs and boxing clubs and athletic clubs till I broke down under the strain. So I speak of that I know. "I say with all this practical knowledge behind me that there is no place in B. C. where the amateur spirit is so pure as here—where games are played so straight—for the game's sake and for honor alone. The canker worm of professionalism—that will cut out the heart of our young men if let alone—we will not have it—will not stand for it. It once dared to raise its baneful head, but we scotched it and we killed it for all time I firmly believe.

Great Men's Witness.
Now of the witness of great men: Ambassador Bryce and Lord Strathcona—Ambassador Bryce, writing to Prof. Todd, of McGill, who sent on the letter here, speaking of a large as against a small community says: "It is well for the students not to have their minds too much distracted from their studies by the amusements which a great city affords. If possible the city ought to be the capital of the province, for there are advantages in having the seat of learning not far from the seat of government." And Lord Strathcona—the grand old man of Canada—the benefactor of education—speaking here last year on this question of a university said: "Victoria should be a great centre of education. The surroundings are ideal for youth. I know of no place which is better situated as a vantage ground for the establishment of educational facilities."

Now of Sites—We have shown you around our fair city. We could have wished for finer weather on the whole but Jupiter Pluvius got hold of the tap and Jupiter Solus was just for once too late. We have whirled you about till you must have lost all the points of the compass. We have shown you sites far and near—named some—down past others. Our object was to show that we have a plethora of room. Not 10 acres, nor 20 acres, but 200 or 500 acres if you wish. There is no lack of good water, large campus, good roads, and farm lands.

A Paradise
Gentlemen—There are said to be three paradises on earth. Those three are islands—Seychelles, in the Indian Ocean; New Zealand, in the Southern Ocean; Vancouver Island, in the North Pacific. We are quite sure of one, Vancouver Island, the "Isle of Dreams," and Victoria is its Capital. Victoria sits this day a queen. Throughout this great Dominion she is known as The Queen City of the West. But still she is uncrowned. We have waited long and patiently for that crown. It is not the crown of commercialism that we want. It is not the crown of material wealth and luxury. But it is the greatest crown of all things earthly—the crown of education. That crown is a university. That is the apex of education. That is the summit of the mount of knowledge.

In your hands lies this gift. It is a tremendous responsibility, pregnant with lasting results.

"We want to win it for our queen—but only in fair and manly competition. We do not want to snatch a victory as we could have done had we forced the issue in the Legislature. We have not sought endorsement from other city or hamlet. We have made no combination, entered into no intrigue. We offer you no alluring monetary inducements, which would be but a gross insult to you and an utter lack of high and gentle breeding. Go forth and view the land. Search high and low, and hear all that can be said. Others have us much right to be proud of their city as we are of ours.

"We lay our case before you with confidence, for we are today the centre of education for British Columbia and why should we not continue so to be?"

"And yet, it may be that you will not be able to see as we do. If so we shall bow before your decision. We shall not murmur. We shall not grumble. We shall know that it is an honest decision you have come to—your pure, unbiassed judgment. We shall go, then, down to defeat with our banner flying. We shall bite the dust with our hands unsoiled, prepared to help in every way the developing of the great University of British Columbia wherever you say it shall be.

"But, gentlemen, when you know all, our queen will not be denied her crown.

"I pray that I may live to see her crowning day—that day when the foundation stone is laid within a cannon shot of Victoria, that day when a beginning is made of a lordly fane that will outshine even this glorious pile in which we are assembled. Then I shall feel that any little work I have done for education amongst my fellow-citizens these twenty years is more repaid a thousand fold. Then (but only then) shall I be content for Victoria the Beautiful will have come into her own.

Two Further Points.

Mr. C. H. Lugin, editor of the Colonist, spoke on two points—the first as to the principle that should govern the choice of location, and secondly the position of Victoria with regard to the future development of the province as a whole. He said the Pacific Coast of Canada is destined to be the greatest industrial and commercial centre in the British Empire. It is a country of illimitable opportunities and the markets of the world are open to it by way of the Pacific ocean. It has all the advantages that go to make a great industrial and commercial centre. It has abundant fisheries. There was no part of the Empire had greater resources. The Commissioners must not look alone to the present but to the future, their decision being one for all time, and the responsibility was a serious one. The university was not to be an adjunct to any city and they must be influenced only by what was best for the university itself. The university would draw it other influences, and thus become a centre where would be developed higher ideals and a more sound patriotism. He believed the commissioners could find in the neighborhood of Victoria a location offering greater advantages than any city in British Columbia. The commissioners had seen much, but there was much they had not seen.

Taking a map he pointed out the area from Sooke on the west to Saanich Inlet, two hundred square miles of ground in this area capable of being developed into such farming communities as they had seen; practically uniform in character. No other part of the province could be compared to it. There were beautiful inland waters, points where men of wealth and culture could seek residence; where the leisure class of the Prairie districts were seeking homes. This part of Vancouver Island is becoming more and more a meeting part for people of means, who desire homes set in commercial surroundings and these gatherings of wealth, culture and refinement will draw still more.

If it is decided to locate the university here Victoria will be surrounded by an ideal population. While in their travels the commissioners would see many other beautiful places which in some respects they might consider eligible, but they could find no place with more advantages than was offered in the Saanich peninsula and the territory westward to Sooke.

Not a Local Question

Mr. Lugin then spoke to the position of this location with regard to the remainder of the province. Looking at the question today, the Commissioner might reach one set of conclusions, but they must consider the question as it affects the province when developed.

If a line is drawn from Hope on the Fraser river to Albert Head will be in British Columbia south of that line and west of the Hope Mountains fully 200,000 people or perhaps four-fifths of the population of the province. Yet the area of the district so set off is not more than one-seventy-fifth part of the whole province. It is therefore evident that the present distribution of population cannot be looked upon as permanent. Students would attend the Provincial University from the far-off Peace River country from the lands along the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific; from the region tributary to the new town of Stewart and from the Kootenay country. They would journey in some cases a thousand miles to reach a university located in almost any part of the province and it would be absurd to claim that the delightful sail of a few score miles to reach Victoria would be a handicap, when in point of fact it would be a delightful way to end the journey. He said that Victoria had the benefit of terminal rates on all long distances and hence the cost of travel would to this city would be no greater than to points on the lower mainland.

A university is not like a market, and pupils make but two or three journeys a year between their homes and the seat of learning.

Mr. Lugin then went on to tell of the great prospective development of the province, of its resources, and expected increase of population, the greatest proportion of which would be located along the coast from Victoria northward. Vancouver Island's rugged contour on its eastern coast, provided a way for a railroad, now planned for its length of 300 miles. The ruggedness of the mainland coast precluded construction of a road along its shore. To Stewart, where the provincial boundary line meets the Alaskan line is but 250 miles further north, and it was easy to be seen how accessible this would make Victoria. This would bring Victoria within thirty hours of

OLD CHUM CIGARETTES

TEN FOR TEN CENTS.

Prince Rupert. When the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad was contemplated, little was known of the resources of the country through which it passes. The construction of the road was proposed, it was considered likely that the line through this province would be a burden on the company; but exploration has shown the richness of this area. None now deny the prospective importance of Prince Rupert and other cities are growing and the people of Victoria take as much pride in the development of all other cities of the province as they do of their own. Here in the north an empire is being developed, and when it was seen what British Columbia was going to be the question of a few miles of travel ceases to be of importance.

The southern part of the province Mr. Lugin pointed out, was also destined to take its place in the chief productive parts of Canada. There are opportunities for fruit farming, commercial development, etc. In the southern 60,000 square miles of country, were resources of imperial magnitude. Its facilities for reaching Victoria were many, the C.P.R., the C.N.R., Great Northern railways, and the splendid steamers running between Vancouver and Victoria were well known. Victoria stands at the apex of the great fan. It is the great focal point, and there is no place which offers such advantages as to its relation to other parts of the province.

Victoria's Climate
Mr. E. B. Paul, superintendent of city schools, presented the argument of the climatic conditions, submitting a number of charts prepared from figures obtained from the meteorological department. Precipitation charts for a period of four years showed that of Victoria much lower, another chart showed greater sunshine, and the showing of the climatic conditions (Continued on Page 15.)

ply means ruin to a great number of concerns. The partners in our firm who have put $5,000,000 into it and hold the ordinary shares, do not get a penny. It is a whole life's work thrown away."

Dealing with the trade as a whole, Mr. Motion said that approximately it had to find an extra $10,500,000 on July 1st, and a further $21,000,000 in October. This is $31,500,000 increase to be paid in five months—on the sum which would have been due in this period if there had been no additional taxation. In Mr. Motion's opinion, the only chance of salvation is to charge $1.50 a barrel more for beer to the publican, who will be compelled to get it back from the retailer.

When parliament reassembles Secretary of State for War, Haldane, is expected to make an announcement as to the duties of Lord Kitchener in the Mediterranean. Lord Kitchener was appointed to the empty position of high commissioner and commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean as long ago as August 7, 1909. In October last it was stated that Lord Kitchener would probably never take up this sham command. Today the doubts expressed

In October have become a fact. Lord Kitchener will not take up the post which was devised so hurriedly after the Duke of Connaught had given up the "command" in disgust.

It is not yet known what Lord Kitchener will do. There are several important appointments to which he may be assigned, and there are powerful interests at work for and against him. Through it all he maintains that reticence and aloofness which is the attribute of greatness. He will do the work to which he is called in good time, and with his usual thoroughness but that work will not be the inspection of a brigade of infantry at Malta, for which there are already two general officers in the Mediterranean. Lord Kitchener is not the man to waste himself in such a futile and ludicrous occupation.

If the Mediterranean command included any sort of control over the Egyptian situation, it would be worth assigning to so great a soldier as Lord Kitchener, but Egypt is under the control of the British agent general, who could not be expected to divide his authority with another. South Africa, too, is obviously impossible, for there, too, there is a competent commander-in-chief. It may be taken as settled, therefore, that no more will be heard about Lord Kitchener taking up the Mediterranean command. Lord Minto's term as Viceroy of

We Offer Small Investors Vancouver Inside Property

Mr. Conservative Investor, you who never take a long chance, you who cannot afford to gamble in stocks, real estate or anything else where there is a chance of losing your money, and yet who are not quite satisfied with the usual 6 or 8 per cent. paid by the usual gilt edged securities, you are the man for whom this ad is written.

If you can buy an interest in a property for $1,000—collect $300 annual revenue, and then find that your property has grown in value to $3,000—that's making money pretty fast, isn't it?

Do you know, there are up-to-date buildings in this city which are paying their first cost back every three years? Yes, and the owners are men who never take a chance either.

But the average investor cannot take advantage of the opportunities to invest in such property—initial outlay is too great—except on one system—co-operation—business units—our system.

Listen: The Pacific Investment Corporation, Ltd., own the very finest Apartment House site in this great city—double corner of Davie and Jervis streets—cost them $25,000 three months ago—is worth $35,000 today—but it's not for sale.

They are erecting thereon the very finest and most up-to-date apartment building in western Canada—bar none, mind you—and on the Business Unit System—true co-operation—estimated cost for building and land $135,000. Plans and specifications for this beautiful building are finished—cut appeared in the Province the other day—and work has started. The building will be rushed to completion this year.

The company has authorized us to place on the market 750 business units—$100 each—$25 cash balance in 2, 4, and 6 months, without interest—and the last few weeks has seen about six hundred of them taken up by some of the shrewdest investors in the city.

Briefly: Total estimated costs... $135,000 00
Less loan now provided for... 60,000 00

Cash capital required... 75,000 00

Gross revenue, estimated... 36,720 00
Less interest, taxes, etc... 14,220 00

Available for annual revenue at 10 per cent... 22,500 00

If you figure your money as worth 10 per cent., these units will be worth at least $300 in one year; if your money is worth only 6 per cent they ought to be worth $500. Naturally they are being taken up very rapidly. Write at once for further information.

FAMOUS FAKE HAS BEEN ARRESTED

Theilman, Who Operated Throughout Northwest Apprehended in Seattle and Goes Behind Bars

SEATTLE, May 30.—With the arrest in Seattle last week of "Dinky" Theilman, the government secret service officials have rounded up the last of the famous Maybray gang of fake prize-fight and phony wrestling match operators, who are said to have made millions from their victims in the last ten years. They operated by conducting "fixed" matches, to which the victim was given a supposedly sure thing tip. Many reliable business men fell into the trap, believing that they were the fixers. Of course, the match always went wrong, one of the participants sustaining serious injury, there was a fake police raid, or some other scheme to so frighten the victim that he gave up his money without a murmur.

The gang operated in Seattle in 1906, fitting up a houseboat on Lake Washington with a ring and seats for a few spectators. They were exposed by the late "Billy" Lavigne, a thoroughly square fight promoter, who refused to mix in their crooked deals. No arrests were made and the gang left Seattle. Finally the government agents began an investigation which led to scores of indictments by a grand jury at Council Bluffs, Iowa, on charges of fraudulent use of the mails. Maybray, the leader, is serving time, as are Joe Carroll and Bert Warner, of Seattle, and Wm. Harris, of Spokane, and members of the gang from other states. Theilman is the last one to be arrested. The operations of the "Big stores gang," the biggest swindlers of recent years, are now a matter of history. It is believed that Theilman is the man who operated in Victoria a little over a year ago, and whom a number of citizens will readily remember.

tions proved them superior to those of other localities.

Women's Point of View

Mrs. A. T. Watt presented the women's point of view, reading an excellent paper showing the advantages of a location near Victoria to give those features of university life which were required by the women students. The important factors of advantage to women students were shown to be superior on Vancouver Island to other localities. Climatic and other conditions were such that out-door life offered more to the girl student, the lower cost of living, the opportunities for out-door study, the social advantages, club life, and all other factors were dealt with at length and excellently treated. The speaker concluded with a pen picture of an attractive site fronting the sea on the south shore of Vancouver Island.

Rev. Bishop Perrin asked the Commissioners if they did not wish to ask questions on any particular point.

Dr. Weldon, the chairman, said they had decided not to ask questions, but to allow the various speakers to present their arguments and listen as judges on a bench to these arguments.

Mr. E. A. Wallace, the well known florist, told of the native flora of this vicinity where were found plants that grow nowhere else north of California, plants requiring a dry summer. He said that it could be taken as an index of the beginning of spring when the flowering plants began, and if so, spring began here in January, for he found flowers beginning to flower in that month. He had noted when his dahodils flowered, and the earliest blossomed on January 25th, and the latest on March 5th. Dahlias were in bloom here at Christmas. He had sent and sold dahlias on December 3rd, so that flowers grew here nearly the whole year round.

Out-Door Recreation

His Honor Judge P. Lampman dealt with the advantages of Victoria with regard to out-door recreation, and reinforced what had been said regarding climatic conditions. He reiterated the necessity of sports and athletics in connection with college life, and the conditions of this locality were better for out-door sports than elsewhere in British Columbia. He referred to the playing of football, field hockey, etc., during the winter months and introduced the professional of the Victoria Golf Club, Mr. Moffatt, who produced his book showing that during the worst two months of the year, November and December, there were usually four days a week on which he had taught golfers on the Oak Bay Links. Incidentally

Judge Lampman added the fact that the Parliament of British Columbia sat here as an advantage to the students, who could attend its debates.

Other addresses were made by Hon. Senator Macdonald, who argues for a university close to the city, and suggested that the name of King Edward College University be given to it; by Mr. J. W. Church, head of Corrig College, who dwelt upon the healthfulness and general advantages this locality offered as a seat of learning; W. J. Sutton, R. L. Drury, His Worship Mayor Morley, Ernest McGaffey, secretary of the Vancouver Island Development Association, Right Rev. Bishop Perrin, Magistrate Jay and H. D. Helmcken. Mr. Sutton said he had travelled over much of the province and was convinced that this locality was the best for the university. R. L. Drury said that when he was a member of the Provincial Government he knew well that the general opinion of the members was that if the misfortune of any happening to destroy the Parliament Buildings had taken place, all would have voted for the re-building in Victoria. He also pointed out that the judges recently appointed to the Appellate Court, although they could have taken up their residences in Vancouver, had chosen to reside here.

Mr. George Jay, the magistrate, referred to the absence of serious crime in Victoria and vicinity.

Mr. E. McGaffey spoke of the advantages Victoria offered with its seat of parliament, museums, libraries, etc. Mr. H. D. Helmcken submitted many pamphlets and papers bearing upon the advantages of Victoria, including an excellent article by A. W. McCurdy in the National Geographic Magazine dealing with the climatic conditions in Victoria.

Mayor Morley welcomed the Commissioners on behalf of the city of Victoria and presented additional arguments, and Right Rev. Bishop Perrin, who moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. Jay, spoke of the clean tone of this city and announced that for some time the Anglican Church had been contemplating the establishment of a college in British Columbia and awaited the verdict of the Commission. He believed Victoria was without doubt the best place, but if he thought otherwise he would have no hesitation in saying so. This city

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE

Biology Has Proved That Dandruff is Caused by a Germ

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbros' Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or seurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality, causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the sure destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. was one clean in tone, a healthy city where the tone of life in general was most desirable.

In the afternoon the Commissioners paid visits to several other suggested sites and this morning leave for Nanaimo and Alberni.

After having enjoyed several walks, theatre parties and late suppers with the lady, he was enjoying a promenade with her, when McGee appeared on the scene and objected to his intimacy with his wife. Pichert alleges that he was forced to hand over to McGee, all the cash in his possession, a gold watch, a paste diamond pin, and three rings, all of which the watchful husband refuses to return until he receives in substitution $500 of coin of the realm.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR

PARIS May 30.—The price of sugar has risen of late and there have been mysterious allusions to a ring. But the simple fact is that there is a shortage of that commodity in Europe and that France has also felt the effect. This is attributed at the Bourse du Commerce to two causes. There has been less production during the past few years and it has coincided with a decided increase in consumption. One authority states that so considerable is the shortage in England that last week an urgent request for 6000 sacks was telegraphed to Paris. No very gloomy view of the prospect, however, is taken at the Bourse du Commerce, as it is hoped there that the production will return to its normal stage, it being argued that in the meanwhile the balance may be pretty fairly restored by a decrease in the use of sugar, not by the general public, but by tradespeople, who employ it for the manufacture of various articles.

Some of the refiners seem inclined to attribute a share in this shortage to the French beetroot growers, who, when the tariffs were lowered, diminished its cultivation which, during the past few years, has decreased to a considerable extent. About fifty beet sugar factories in France have closed.

TIMBER COMMISSION RESUMES SESSIONS

Hears Argument for National Park in Interior and Representations From the Loggers Regarding Grievances

Proposals for the establishment of a British Columbia National Park in the Kootenay were advanced tentatively before the Timber and Forestry Commission at the resumed sitting of that important body in this city yesterday by Mr. L. G. Chapman, of the Geological Survey of Canada, who was the first witness heard upon the subject. Mr. A. S. Goodwin, M.P., the third member of the Commission, has not yet arrived in the Capital, but is expected to be present at today's sitting, when pulp and pulpwood interests will be heard. The acting secretary of the Commission is now Captain Oldham of this city.

Mr. Chapman prefaced his proposal with an interesting explanation of the steps in a similar direction already taken by the United States authorities, who have reserved as a park an extensive area extending from the prairies to the north fork of the Flathead River on the west, and comprising in all some 1,500 square miles. This area was formerly under reserve as a national forest, but its classification has recently been changed to that of a national park. It is desired that British Columbia shall establish a similar national park on this side the boundary line, tying on to the American park at the mythical line, such a Provincial park connecting on the one side with the Alberta park reserve and on the other with the National Park of Canada, and intelligent provision thus being made for the protection of the game in its annual migrations north and south. The area proposed to be devoted to such national park purposes by British Columbia is roughly about two hundred square miles, while the Alberta area connecting is somewhat larger, as also is that of the American preserve. It is contemplated that adequate provision shall be made for the utilization of the natural resources, mineral etc., within the proposed park's boundaries, the desired reserve being solely for forest and game protection purposes.

A paper elaborating the proposals advanced by Mr. Chapman will be prepared and presented later to the Commissioners.

Loggers' Grievances

Four important questions affecting the logging interest were discussed at length by Secretary McArthur, of the British Columbia Loggers' Association, who was the second witness heard by the Commission yesterday. Reform of the British Columbia log scale was the first of these, it being alleged that the present scale is manifestly unfair to the logger. This scale, according to Secretary McArthur, was adopted years ago, when the saws in use by the millmen were less fine than now, a greater percentage of waste being accordingly allowed for in the scale than modern milling methods entail. This allowance, it was contended, does not give the logger his full weight. Mr. McArthur advocated a modification of the scale so that instead of allowing 1 1/2 inches generally, the allowance should be, say, 1 1/2 inches on 16-inch logs and smaller; one inch on 17 to 21-inch logs, and 1/2 inch on logs of 25 inches and upwards. If this principle were adopted, it was contended, on a half million foot boom the scale would work out very close to the Scribner scale, which it was consequently assumed had been worked out upon a somewhat similar plan. For purposes of illustration, Mr. McArthur took an imaginary boom of half a million feet, contending that under the present British Columbia scale the loggers would lose approximately 29,000 feet, or about 5 1/2 per cent. Of course, the Government, too, would obtain more in royalty if the scale were reformed as suggested. Even under the Scribner scale, with their finer saws, the Washington millmen manage to make a 10 per cent. overrun. The British Columbia scale, it was stated, had been designed for Coast timber and under conditions of manufacture now grown obsolete, and applied at a comparatively recent date to the timber of the Interior. It was absurd to think of still allowing the same kerr as in times gone by.

Want Reserve Lifted

Secretary McArthur also urged that bona fide operators whose timber has become exhausted should be permitted to stake reserved timber areas not to exceed one square mile upon the condition that they begin the removal of the timber within ninety days, and continue to prosecute operations unremittently so long as any merchantable timber remains on the claim. This was especially urged in the interest of the small logger, coming next to the hand logger, with his little donkey engine; only for the man with at least a $2,000 plant should this concession be made applicable. There are stated to be many of these small loggers who have invested their money in the business and now find themselves with practically no timber to work on. It was virtually impossible for them to get timber, in view of the prohibitive prices at which limit-holders were offering their property. Timber, too, was being sold on a stumpage basis, and one had to pay upon buying, for much more than proved to be on the claim. In the event of no such concession as proposed being made to them, many of these small loggers would have to go out of business. It was thought that some arrangement might be reached by which the legislature might preserve and protect its rights, and yet the desired allowance be made.

The Commissioners at this stage of Mr. McArthur's argument raised the pertinent question as to what would prevent in the event of the desired concession being agreed to—the powerful lumbermen grouping the interests of ten or a dozen of these small loggers, and utilizing the cut off reserved timber while holding their own?

Of course, was Secretary McArthur's reply, the law would have to be framed as to guard against such a contingency.

The third subject dealt with by Mr. McArthur was the desirability of the Government permitting the export of low grade cedar to be utilized by the American mills in the shingle industry, it being pointed out (as on presentation of the same request to the Executive Council) that under the present status of the American tariff, lower grade cedar products manufactured in Canada cannot be marketed at a profit in the American states. Mr. McArthur contended that in the framing of the American tariff the argument chiefly prevailing with President Taft was not so much the desirability of having the business of the American mills as the granting of assistance to the Washington farmer in the quick clearing of his land.

Some little discussion arose at this juncture as to what percentage of cedar in this province may legitimately be classed as low grade, the consensus of opinion being apparently that from 50 to 70 per cent would be naturally so graded, and that it would pay to export this percentage. If the cedar was to be cut, it was imperative that it should be taken off the land coincidently with the fir logging, as it would be impossible to go back for the cedar, much of which would in the meantime have been burned.

Effect on Local Industry

Inquiry was made by the Commissioners as to how far the granting of the concession desired would naturally retard the day of manufacturing and marketing the low grade cedar in our own Dominion. Mr. McArthur's answer being that the mills of this country were not at present equipped for the handling of low grade cedar. This phase of the inquiry received prominent airing during the testimony of a later witness.

The fourth feature of Mr. McArthur's evidence was in respect to the fire patrol system and its demands upon the logger. The secretary of the association stated with emphasis that the loggers were not doing so well as people imagined, and certainly not so well as to be able to bear any additional burdens. In very many cases they were not getting even fifty cents per M., or as much as the Government. The fire patrol obligation would therefore require to be handled with delicacy.

Commissioner Plummerfelt inquired how one cent an acre would suit the loggers, and to this Mr. McArthur responded that $6.40 a mile did not seem out of the way. If the loggers were compelled to burn their brush, he observed, it would cost them more than the logging, and they would simply have to go out of business.

Mr. Plummerfelt remarked that there were, of course, divergent views as to the question of cost, and Mr. McArthur promising to submit certain data in writing, this feature of his examination was dismissed.

Mr. J. O'Brien, the third witness of the day, upon taking the stand remarked that on a previous appearance before the Commission he had hazarded the prophecy that the price of lumber would go up. He had now a second prediction to offer, that within two years the duty on lumber going into the United States would be taken off. He had the advantage of being closely in touch with American political affairs and was convinced that the next Congress would take this action, subsequent to the coming elections. Mr. O'Brien supported the loggers' petition for a temporary suspension of the prohibition of rough cedar export, remarking incidentally that personally he was disinterested as he was logging off Crown-granted land and could make such disposition of his cut as pleased him. He knew, however, among his neighbor loggers, of something like six million feet of logs now in the water (where they had been since last month at least) which would not be worth fifty cents a thousand until marketed soon. This meant $72,000 worth of logs going to waste, which might be sold across the line and utilized at $6 per thousand. And there were many other booms in the same position of which he spoke with personal knowledge.

The question was asked by the Commissioners if the suspension of the present prohibition of export would not necessarily retard the education of the Canadian public to take the low grade cedar product.

Mr. O'Brien's reply was a third prediction, that within a year the mills of British Columbia would be cutting the low grade cedar.

Favors Granting Request

Touching the request of the loggers, and the cited instances of booms now in the water going to waste unless permission for their foreign sale were given, Commissioner Plummerfelt pointed out that statutory enactment was in the way, and this only in cases of extreme necessity should be varied by Governmental action. He indicated his own willingness to see an exemption granted in this particular case, for the avoidance of waste and loss, conditional upon the loggers giving a guarantee that they would not make of the exemption a precedent, and come again from time to time to the Government with requests for what was really an abrogation of the statutory law. If the loggers did not feel disposed to give such a guarantee, and if requests of this nature were to be presented from time to time and as a matter of business practice, the proper course was not for the loggers to come to the Government or to the Commission, but to the Legislature for the repeal of the anti-export law.

This did not seemingly suit the loggers present, the majority regarding the law as good and generally in the interest of British Columbia and its people.

The possibility also suggested itself to Commissioner Plummerfelt that if the American mills were permitted to get British Columbia's low grade cedar economically, they might possibly arrange to dump their product on the Canadian market, thus injuring that market for the British Columbia manufacturer.

Mr. O'Brien before leaving the stand remarked incidentally that three concerns to his knowledge were even now meditating the manufacture of low grade cedar in British Columbia. Millmen here now counted from ten to twelve per cent, first grade cedar off licenses as a fair average.

The opinion was very clearly indicated by Commissioner Plummerfelt ere

TWENTY ROUND DRAW

LONDON, May 30.—Pacey McFarland, of Chicago, and Freddie Welsh, the British lightweight champion, fought a twenty-round draw tonight before the National Sporting Club. Fight was for a purse of $6000 and a side bet of $1000. McFarland had much the better of the bout. He lead all the way, knocking his opponent against the ropes repeatedly and forcing the fighting in every round. The verdict therefore is received with much hostility. ## LACROSSE LEAGUE

BEGIN TOMORROW

North Ward and Victoria West
Lacrosse Twelves Cross in Evening Game at the Royal
Athletic Grounds

Real dyed-in-the-wool lacrosse fans who like to see the young, strong athletes out with the webbed stick and making good progress at Canada's national game will have a dainty lacrosse menu set before them tomorrow night when the Victoria West twelve will clash that fast bunch of players representing the North Ward. That this one will be "some" game is a foregone conclusion, as both teams are in tip-top condition and they are ready to put up the fight of the season.

This match will be the first one of the season in the race for the Claxton Cup, emblematic of the City Senior championship and will be a good one from the first sound of the whistle. The teams met earlier in the season, when in a practice match the Wards were victorious to the tune of two goals to one.

But this time, Stanley Okell has gathered together a group who have trained to the minute and will be on deck with the glint of victory shining from their countenances. There will be old timers like Archie Clegg, Jim McLaughlin, Lance Styles, Curley Campbell, Stan Okell and Percy Wilson, together with a bunch of new young blood. They have been conditioning themselves for some time now and they are all anxious for the call of time.

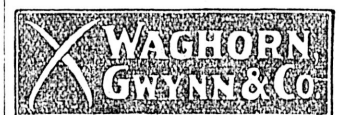

The teams line-up is as follows:

MINING NEWS

The Question of Responsibility
There is again, the meaning of the term "competent person." It is a topsy-turvy arrangement to suggest that the executive workman should be the most skilled person in the colliery in electrical matters. Skill in the sense needed here is knowledge and judgment. We are now in a time of transition, but in the course of a generation we may expect the order of soundness of knowledge of these matters and of responsibility to be (1) the district inspector, (2) the electrical engineer, (3) the colliery manager, (4) the executive electrician. It will rarely be that the manager knows more than the electrical engineer, but in small collieries the duties of (2) and (4) may be combined. Who then, is to be the referee. The simplest solution would appear to be to refer all matters of more than detail, which cannot be decided by the local staff, to a friendly manager who knows about these things. No colliery manager should be expected to decide matters of policy or detail in his electrical plant unless he is himself a competent electrician—that is, he must have passed an examination and have had practical instruction in electrical matters. It follows that if the executive electrician is also to be "competent" he also must have had a recognized training and have passed some qualifying test. This would not weed out the habitually careless, but it would enable responsibility to be fixed. Meanwhile during the evolution of the complete man it seems not unreasonable to ask that the work of the district inspector should be supplemented by men with a knowledge of mining conditions who have specialized on the electrical side of mining. Such are now to be found as managers, under managers or engineers connected with collieries on all the great coal-fields. Four or five appointments of this kind would help to give effect to the revised rules and by advice to do the probably small amount of weeding of details necessary to bring the safe use of electricity in mines up to date. It is essential that inspection should not be in any sense a party matter. It would strengthen the confidence of both masters and men to have more of it applied as it is at present, in a sound and impartial manner.
